Tehran hardens its stance ahead of key talks with Vance

AGENCIES @ Washington/Islamabad

AS the Pakistan-brokered limited ceasefire between the US and Iran appeared to hold for the fourth day on Friday, US Vice President J D Vance left for Islamabad to hold talks with Iranian negotiators on Saturday morning local time. US President Donald Trump's son-in-law Jared Kushner and special envoy Steve Witkoff are part of the US team.

Iran's delegation led by Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi and Parliament Speaker Mohammad Bagher Ghalibaf was expected to reach Islamabad on Friday evening, but has not.

DAY 42 WAR WATCH

Hinting that Tehran might pull out, Ghalibaf said a ceasefire must take hold in Lebanon and Iran's assets must be unlocked before the talks can begin.

The US, Iran and Pakistan have given conflicting accounts of whether Israel's strikes on Iran-backed Hezbollah in Lebanon are part of the ceasefire agreed on April 7. Iran and Pakistan claim Lebanon is part of the deal; US says it is not.

Even if the talks take place as scheduled, no immediate breakthrough is expected on Day 1. Negotiations with Iran are known to be time-consuming and complex. Iran's Supreme National Security Council has indicated the talks could continue for 15 days, which means the 15-day ceasefire would be extended.

The truce pact is already facing pressure with both the US and Iran flagging violations of the ceasefire agreement announced on April 7. Israel has stepped up its attack on Lebanon. As for Iran, it continues to control the Strait of Hormuz and has not been allowing free movement of vessels through it, drilling holes in Trump's claim that the he got Iran to open up the vital passage.

Trump said Iran was doing "a poor job" in freeing Hormuz. "That is not the agreement we have!" he rued. He also threatened to strike again if a deal not reached.

Vance warned Iran not to try to "play" the US unless it wants bad results. The talks are scheduled to happen in Islamabad's Serena Hotel.

The US and Iranian teams won't sit across the table; they will sit in separate rooms with Pak officials going from one room to the other to pass on the messages. U.S. DRAFTED SHARIF'S TRUCE APPEAL TO DON: P14

Missing Kerala girl found dead 2K-ft under waterfall

THIPPERUDRAPPA B @ Chikkamagaluru

THREE days after she went missing, the body of 14-year-old Srinanda from Kerala was found about 2,000 feet below the Manikyadhara waterfalls in the Chandradrona Hill ranges on Friday. Srinanda was part of a 40-member tourist group that had visited Datta Peeta and Manikyadhara Falls in Chikkamagaluru district on April 7 evening. Srinanda reportedly got separated from her family and went missing the same day.

Srinanda's body was traced after a joint effort by the Karnataka Forest Department, Fire and Emergency Services, Police and SDRF personnel. The operation had continued for three days, with teams using thermal drones and combing the difficult terrain.

As news of her death reached the family, scenes of grief unfolded at the site. Her relatives broke down before the media, struggling to come to terms with the loss. Her mother, Rohini, inconsolable and in tears, questioned the circumstances surrounding her daughter's death. Rohini said she could not believe her daughter had slipped accidentally near the falls. CONTINUED ON: P9

Marco Rubio to come calling in May

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

SECRETARY of State Marco Rubio will visit India in May, the United States announced, signalling renewed momentum in ties between New Delhi and Washington after recent strains over trade issues.

The visit comes as both sides are preparing to revive negotiations aimed at sealing an interim trade agreement, indicating a shared push to their economic engagement. The announcement followed a "productive meeting" between Rubio and Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri at the White House, where both sides reviewed key pillars of the bilateral relationship, including trade, critical minerals, defence cooperation, and the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue.

US Ambassador to India Sergio Gor, who attended the meeting, confirmed the upcoming visit in a post on X. "Secretary Rubio looks forward to visiting India next month," Gor said. The envoy said that discussions with Misri focused on strengthening cooperation across strategic sectors.

During his three-day visit to Washington, Misri also met US Deputy Secretary of State Christopher Landau. According to the State Department, the two sides "reaffirmed the close partnership" and exchanged views on global and regional developments, including the situation in the Persian Gulf. Separately, US Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs Allison Hooker emphasized expanding cooperation in security and economic domains.

MARCO RUBIO

"We are finding practical ways to make both Americans and Indians safer and more prosperous, including through the Quad," Hooker said.

The Indian Embassy in Washington said that discussions also reviewed progress since the last Foreign Office Consultations in December and covered recent developments in West Asia and other areas of mutual interest.

Rubio's upcoming visit is expected to inject momentum to the India–US Comprehensive Global Strategic Partnership.

EMBATTLED JUSTICE VARMA PUTS IN HIS PAPERS

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AMID initiation of impeachment proceedings in the Lok Sabha following sacks of burnt currency notes found at his residential complex in New Delhi last year, Justice Yashwant Varma resigned on Friday with immediate effect.

In his letter dated April 9, he conveyed his 'deep anguish' to President Droupadi Murmu, while saying he did not wish to burden her office with the reasons for his decision. By doing so, he escaped the ignominy of becoming the first member of the higher judiciary to be sacked by Parliament. Varma was due to retire on January 5, 2031.

YASHWANT VARMA

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla had recently shared that a three-member in-house probe committee had been reconstituted under the Judges (Inquiry) Act, 1968, against Varma. The committee comprises Supreme Court judge Arvind Kumar, Bombay High Court Chief Justice Shree Chandrashekhar and Senior Advocate Vasudeva Acharya. Varma's resignation rendered all proceedings by the probe panel infructuous.

The case stems from a fire on March 14, 2025, in the storeroom of Varma's official residence in Delhi, where police personnel found wads of partially burnt currency notes in gunny bags. Photos and videos of them burning were outed by the then Chief Justice of India Sanjiv Khanna, who advised Varma to quit after an in-house probe panel pointed the finger of suspicion at him. Varma refused and was repatriated to the Allahabad High Court without assigning judicial work pending inquiry.

By putting in his papers, the judge hopes to have dodged the bullet to protect his pension. Had he been impeached, he would have lost not just pension but other retirement benefits as well. The burning question though is the source of those smouldering currency notes caught on camera.

THE Human Space Flight Centre (HSFC) under Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) is looking at involving pilots and researchers in missions on board the country's planned first space station, the Bharatiya Antariksh Station (BAS), scheduled to be ready by 2035. The future could also involve eligible students to go on the BAS to participate in missions in space.

DK Singh, Director, HSFC – established in 2019 to spearhead ISRO's human space flight programme – on Friday said a road map will be prepared to expand the astronaut pool to include a wider variety of personnel to be involved in missions and experiments on the BAS in the future. He, however, refrained from revealing a timeline for it.

At present, India's astronaut pool comprises only four 'Gaganyaatris' – Group Captains Shubhanshu Shukla, Prashanth Nair, Angad Pratap Singh and Ajit Krishnan – who have been selected to prepare for India's first manned space flight, Gaganyaan, scheduled to be launched in the first quarter of 2027. As per the Gaganyaan mission profile, three of the four will finally be chosen to be on the Gaganyaan mission, which will be taken to an orbit of 400km altitude for three days and safely return to Earth through a predetermined splashdown in the Indian waters.

Of the four, only Grp Capt Shubhanshu Shukla has been into space on a live mission, and credited for being the first Indian to step into the International Space Station, which happened during the Axiom-4 mission by Axiom Space in partnership with SpaceX and NASA in June 2025. CONTINUED ON: P7

Top officials review measures to prevent flooding in high-risk areas in the city

Additional Chief Secretary (UDD) Tushar Girinath, GBA Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao and other officials inspect a flood-prone location on Friday

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

ADDITIONAL Chief Secretary of Urban Development department Tushar Girinath has asked officials to complete all pending work before May 30 or get suspended.

The ACS's warning came after he inspected multiple flood-prone locations, including Yelahanka's Kendriya Vihara, Tata Nagar, Hebbal, Manyata Tech Park, HBR Layout, Geddalahalli, Nagawara, Sai Layout and Silk Board.

Girinath, who led the inspection on Friday morning along with Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao in the above areas, reviewed the progress of the multiple ongoing works to prevent flooding.

He said that a lot of work has been done in the past four years and they are hopeful of averting floods to a great extent.

During his inspection of the HBR Layout, the ACS lost his cool over the pending Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) intake well (for collection of water) construction work. Those who were part of the inspection said that the ACS was irked by the delay, and the work was pending since the time he was the Commissioner of the erstwhile Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike.

Later, while replying to the media, Girinath said that the intake well work has been pending, and the engineer has reasoned that due to the presence of the rocks, the work has been delayed. "The engineer has sought time till October to finish the work. If he fails to do so, he would be recommended for suspension", Girinath said.

To prevent flooding in the Kendriya Vihar Apartment area and Kogilu Junction, a 2.7 km long 35-meter-wide stormwater drain (SWD) from Venkatala Lake to Jakkur Lake would be taken up, along with a 30-foot-wide road on both sides.

Girinath said that in the first phase, a 1.5 km-long RCC (reinforced cement concrete) barrier wall was constructed along with a drain to ensure smooth flow of rainwater.

He took an update on the measures taken to prevent flooding in Tata Nagar and said a stormwater drain from Doddabommasandra lake, measuring 900 meters with a 20-foot width, is being constructed.

At Hebbal, Girinath inspected the comprehensive development of the lake, taken up at Rs 15.90 crore, and the wetland and inlet construction works would commence after the 16-acre encroachment of the lake by the Fisheries Research and Information Centre is cleared.

"A system is being developed to divert rainwater into the lake from beneath Hebbal Junction," he said.

"Permanent solutions have been implemented for four waterlogging points, including the airport-direction main carriageway down ramp, service roads, and bus stop area," Girinath said directing officials to complete the work on the Tumkur Road loop down ramp within 15 days.

To address waterlogging in Manyata Tech Park and Veeranapalya Outer Ring Road, Girinath said land is being acquired, and SWD is being constructed at private cost.

At Silk Board Junction, culvert work has been undertaken to prevent waterlogging. The work involves increasing the height from 1.5 meters to 3.5 meters and installing gratings, and it is currently in progress, Girinath said.

Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao said that necessary steps should be taken to enable faster movement on the double-decker flyover constructed from Silk Board to Ragigudda. He also instructed that barricades be removed in areas where pillar work has been completed, and roads be developed to ease traffic flow.

War hits pothole filling, road work: Rao

The Iran-US war has affected pothole-filling and road work in Bengaluru, with the supply of bitumen, a major component used for asphalting, hit hard. GBA Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao told TNIE the availability of petroleum products is irregular and the supply of bitumen is held up.

Reacting to concerns of asphalting taking a beating, ACS Tushar Girinath said they would attempt to procure the bitumen needed for the works, even if it costs more. He said they would have a discussion with the Public Works Department on how they could fill and lay roads without bitumen.

101 flood-prone locations, 52 yet to be set right

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

OF the total 101 flood-prone locations in Bengaluru's five city corporations, 52 are yet to be tackled. According to information available with TNIE, 49 locations have been made monsoon-ready. While Bengaluru West City Corporation has the highest number with 48 vulnerable locations, South City Corporation has 24 locations, East City Corporation has 20, North City Corporation has six and Bengaluru Central City Corporation has only three.

With a Rs 1,500-crore State government grant reserved for regular desilting and annual maintenance, work is on to fix 26 vulnerable locations. With help from the World Bank and National Disaster Mitigation Fund, problems in 21 locations of the pending 52 would be addressed, a senior official said.

Additional Chief Secretary (ACS), Urban Development, Tushar Girinath, who chaired a monsoon-preparedness review meeting on Friday after inspecting the city, directed corporation teams to coordinate with fire teams during emergency situations. He also asked GBA officials to conduct a drone survey before and after dredging of stormwater drains (SWD) in GBA limits and submit a report.

At the meeting chaired by Girinath, it was also decided to speedily execute a skywalk by BMRCL, in coordination with Outer Ring Road Companies Association (ORRCA) at Silk Board, as these firms will chip in with funds, and GBA will get the project executed.

The ACS concluded the meeting with a direction to appoint nodal officers and a team comprising corporations, Bescom, BWSSB and set up a corporation control room before the onset of the rainy season. They were also directed to prepare a list of SDRF and NDRF officers, set up control rooms at the sub-division level and keep all equipment required for the rainy season ready.

RESIDENTS' SPEAK

While provision has been made to prevent flooding of Kendriya Vihar, water may reverse flow from Maruthinagar side during heavy rain. That apart, big projects of Brigade and Godrej are coming up. There should be side drains on two sides in the surrounding area, as against one line; hence, our appeal to the civic body is to work on the drainage network.

Shiva Prasad, Kendriya Vihar Apartment Owners' Association

Officials visited to check the progress of vent work at Geddalahalli. Had officials fixed the problem five years ago, we would not have undergone huge financial loss due to flooding of homes. Some more work is pending, and Additional Chief Secretary Tushar Girinath, who reviewed the progress, warned stormwater drain engineers to complete the task before May or face suspension.

Shahjahan, resident, Sai Layout

Civic body fails in annual maintenance of the stormwater drain network. Drains are choked with garbage, and despite bringing it to the notice of officials, no action is taken. When it rains, water from the upper stream -- Yelahanka, Kogilu and Hebbal -- floods HBR 3rd Block. The entire layout with 200 odd homes gets flooded at least twice a year during the rains.

HC imposes ₹1L cost on petitioners for PIL against grading for third language

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DISMISSING a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) questioning the decision of the state government to introduce grading system for the third language in SSLC exams, the Karnataka High Court imposed a cost of Rs one lakh on the petitioners.

Chandana HN and Venkatesh S had filed the PIL submitting that the education minister Madhu Bangarappa had announced that Hindi subject is not compulsory and it will be considered only for grading purposes in the SSLC exams. They contended that the decision was one-sided and was taken without public consultation, and it may hamper the career prospects of students.

The divisional bench headed by chief justice Vibhu Bakhru opined that the PIL is really not a litigation in the interest of the public, but more an interest of seeking publicity. "We accordingly dismiss the present petition with a cost of Rs 50,000 payable to the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority within a period of two weeks," the bench said.

The advocate representing the petitioners presented newspaper articles and said the minister had made a statement that Hindi would be dropped completely. Reviewing the articles, the court said, "This statement is completely erroneous and no such statement appeared in the newspaper. This establishes that the present petition is a motivated one maybe to seek publicity. Make that cost Rs 1 lakh," the bench said, increasing the penalty.

11th April : Anger Management Mars joining powerful luminaries in Aries brings an examination of that spark-plug emotion known as anger. While fear moves us away from danger, anger moves us toward the problem. It shows where a boundary has been crossed, strips away politeness and energizes action. Before denying or expressing anger, ask it to teach you something clear and true.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Challenge revitalizes you. You're so good at picking the one that is just the right size to invigorate and not enough to discourage -- for instance, by adding a time constraint or an offbeat element which serves to turn the task into a game.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20)
Your deepest desire is for honesty. Inwardly, you keep asking what's real. You want to know if people will do as they say, and if they are who they present themselves to be. You've an excellent sense for it.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)
A jacket can be beautifully made, high quality, stylish... and still not fit the person who tries it on. The issue isn't the jacket's value. It's compatibility. The options in front of you are neutral in value. The real question is which ones feel natural and workable for you.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)
It's a caution so classic it's at the center of stories as old as time: Pride goeth before the fall. And today, once again, the cosmic omens warn against overconfidence. Humility keeps the good fortune flowing.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
Your compassion has you forgetting to wonder, "What's in it for me?" But skipping this part would be akin to wasting your time. It's OK to lead with your own best interests, which include finding the right match for your generosity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
You're thankful to be out of survival mode, but the lessons you learned there still apply, and you can conjure the vibe when you need to. You focus intently on what matters. The nonsense shrinks to its proper size.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)
Harmony isn't luck. It's the art of tiny, well-timed corrections. You're unusually good at spotting the small adjustments that make everything work better. Move the meeting five minutes, shift the tone slightly, add a dash of humor... voila!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21)
A conversation veers into interesting territory, and you're keen to stay with it. There's an idea here just for you. Perhaps it arrives sideways through humor, curiosity and a willingness to follow a strange thought.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
Today it's less about what's good or bad and more about what clicks. Don't overthink it. You will get grounded as you redirect your focus toward what feels like home. The path forms before your feet.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
You pick up on something subtle -- a key that will open a whole new territory. You feel the truth, and you feel the untruth. A stray comment, a tiny inconsistency, a clue hiding in plain sight... and you're led to investigate further.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
You do what's right even when no one is watching -- that is when you know the right thing to do. When you don't, you can't be blamed for the outcome. You're still working it out. Let the experimentation lead you to what works.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar 20)
You read energy well. You can feel the difference between someone truly present with you versus someone who's just occupying adjacent space. Knowing who's genuinely tuned in becomes a kind of superpower today that affects future social and professional decisions.

DRUNK-DRIVING CASES UP IN CITY, COPS INTENSIFY CHECKS IN ACCIDENT HOTSPOTS

Number of DD cases booked was 3,039 in first quarter of 2024; 7,100 in 2025; 9,794 in 2026

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH around 9,794 drunk-driving (DD) cases booked in the first quarter of this year which is much more compared to the last two years, the city traffic police have changed their approached to tackle the menace. They are now focusing on carrying out drunk-and-drive checks in areas that report more number of night-time accidents.

Senior police officers attached to the Bengaluru Traffic Police (BTP), including the DCPs, analysed the number of accidents in each traffic police station in the city during night. Traffic police stations with more accidents at night were asked to check for drunk driving all through the week and the remaining traffic stations have been asked to stick to the previous four days of checking, from Thursday to Sunday.

Sahil Bagla, DCP (Traffic East), said that the number of drunk-driving cases are increasing as the traffic police are focusing to avoid accidents and to bring orderliness. "Main reason is to reduce the number of accidents. We have made a list of traffic police stations where the number of accidents are high. In such traffic police stations, drunk-driving checks will be done on all days of the week. In the East traffic division, in four stations, the number of accidents are high and DD checks are being done on all seven days of the week, while it is only from Thursday to Sunday in the remaining police stations," the DCP added.

Gopal M Byakod, DCP (Traffic South) said that the increase in DD cases are due to more enforcement. "Earlier all traffic police stations were doing DD checks during the weekend. Based on the data of late night accidents, we are insisting on DD checks. Traffic police stations connecting the city's outskirts are the ones where DD checks are made every day," the DCP added.

The traffic police have pointed out 64 black spots in the city and DD checks will be conducted on all the days of the week at these spots. Some of the traffic police stations where DD checking are happening on all days are Kengeri, Kamakshipalya, Byatarayanapura, Madiwala, Hulimavu, Bellanduru, Electronic City, Thalaghattapura, Yelahanka, Chikkajala, Hennuru, Peenya, KR Puram, Airport, Whitefield, Mahadevapura.

"DD checking have been intensified in the outskirts of the city. Motorists driving on the highways are the ones who are being booked the most. These motorists will be under the assumption that once they cross major roads of the city, the traffic police will not be there. This is being done not to increase the number of drunk and driving cases, but to reduce the number of accidents," said a traffic police officer.

In 2024, the number of DD cases booked in the first quarter was 3,039, in 2025 it was 7,100 and in 2026 the number of cases are 9,794.

29-yr-old held for shooting, posting 'zombie drug' video

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 29-year-old employee of an optical showroom has been arrested by the Bagalur police in connection with the 'zombie drug' video. The person had made the 32-second video on Tuesday morning and posted it in the evening. He posted another video on Friday seeking apologies for making and posting the video without verifying.

Meanwhile, police are serving notices to those who shared and commented on the video asking them to delete them. Actor Duniya Vijay is one of them. Home Minister G Parameshwara and City Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh have reiterated that the person in the video was not under the influence of any narcotics.

The accused, identified as Hemanth Kumar, is a resident of Vidyaranyapura. He was arrested on Thursday night. The police have registered an FIR against Hemanth for circulating false information or reports through electronic means (BNS 353) and also under the Information Technology Act.

Hemanth told the police that around 11.30 am on Tuesday, he was going towards Rajanukunte on the Bagalur Main Road when he saw the man motionless and struggling to walk. As he had seen zombie videos on YouTube, he assumed that the person must be under the influence of 'zombie drug' and made a video. When the police were analysing the video, they noticed a scooter and zeroed in on Hemanth on checking the ownership details.

Parameshwara said the person in the video, who is from Haryana-Punjab region, is a lorry driver and told the police that he had consumed drugs once in Punjab. However, he was not under the influence of any zombie drug in the city, he added.

Duniya Vijay had shared the video stating that 'zombie drug' had reached Bengaluru and youth and parents must be cautious. He also urged the police to clarify the genuineness of the video. The police have also served a notice to him asking him to delete the video.

Reacting to the sharing of the video by the actor, the city police commissioner said notices are being served to all those who shared it and even commented on it. The Bagalur police have registered a case.

While claiming that a victory for the Congress in the Bagalkot bypolls is crucial to demonstrate the party's continued popularity and stability in Karnataka, Public Works Minister Satish Jarkiholi said the Congress worked from the grassroots to ensure that the Bagalkot seat, which fell vacant after the demise of former MLA H Y Meti, is retained

DAY AFTER DAVANAGERE SOUTH BYPOLL, TREMORS IN CONGRESS

Saleem says some leaders conspired to defeat Samarth, but minorities voted in Cong favour

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

A day after the bypolls to the Davanagere South Assembly constituency, all is not well in the state Congress, as several Muslim community leaders, including Chief Whip in the Council Saleem Ahmed, have alleged that there was a conspiracy by a few within the party to defeat the party candidate, Samarth Shamanur.

"Some senior Congress leaders had planned a major conspiracy to defeat Samarth. The Minorities, however, have voted in favour of the party. AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, KPCC president and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar and CM Siddaramaiah have information regarding this. Samarth was fielded after consent from all the Minority community leaders. However, there was some misunderstanding. Khwaja Bande Nawaz head from Kalaburagi gave a message in favour of the Congress as the BJP should not get an edge," Saleem told reporters on Friday. Saleem was addressing a joint press conference along with community leaders, including legislators Rizwan Arshad, Yasir Khan Pathan and Balkis Banu.

Saleem, however, claimed that the party's internal survey has revealed a landslide victory for Congress in Davanagere South as people are impressed with the five guarantees of the government besides the development work carried out by Samarth's grandfather and former MLA late Shamanur Shivashankarappa.

He stressed that MLAs NA Haris and Tanvir Seth had worked hard in Davanagere to consolidate minorities' votes for the party.

According to informed sources, AICC secretary Karnataka in-charge Abhishek Dutt has filed a detailed report to the high command, including Mallikarjun Kharge, recommending action against those leaders who had allegedly hatched a conspiracy to defeat Samarth. Samarth is the son of Karnataka Horticulture Minister SS Mallikarjun and Member of Parliament from Davanagere Prabha Mallikarjun.

Meanwhile, some party leaders have lodged a complaint with AICC general secretary and Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala against Karnataka Housing Minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan, as the latter did not campaign in Davanagere South.

Zameer was sulking as the Congress had denied a ticket to a Muslim candidate. He was busy campaigning for UDF in neighbouring Kerala. Zameer had also strained his relationship with Mallikarjun as the latter had reportedly said that the former is not indispensable. On the insistence of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Zameer had visited Mallikarjun on April 5 and buried the hatchet. Except for having lunch and speaking to reporters, Zameer did not campaign for Samarth. Zameer had lobbied for a ticket for his loyalist MLC Abdul Jabbar, who also did not campaign.

Another minority leader, Sadiq Pailwan, had filed his nomination papers as a Congress rebel candidate. The party had sought the help of Zameer and MLC Nazir Ahmed to convince Sadiq to withdraw the papers, but in vain. But Saleem and Rizwan visited Sadiq and convinced him to withdraw his papers.

POLL DAYS

Siddu, DKS on campaign spree, admin work hit

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@ Bengaluru

WITH Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and his deputy, DK Shivakumar, away for the past few weeks on bypoll campaigns in Davanagere South and Bagalkot as well as to Kerala, Assam and Tamil Nadu, day-to-day administration works have slowed down. No major meetings have been held after the Budget session that ended on April 26.

While Congress leaders cite model code of conduct, post-budget review meetings are usually conducted within a month, but none have taken place this year. Karnataka is currently facing issues such as drinking water shortage, crop loss due to rains and e-Swathu server problems.

With no meetings convened by the CM, the DCM or ministers, the opposition alleges that government has lost control.

In the last 12 days since March 30, the CM has spent six days campaigning in Bagalkot, four days in Davanagere. In between, he also visited Kasargod to campaign for the UDF. He was in Bengaluru on April 8 and 9 but no meetings were convened. On Friday Siddaramaiah went to New Delhi to attend the Congress Working Committee meeting.

While during the same period, Shivakumar was in Assam, Kerala and Tamil Nadu. He spent four days in Davanagere and two days in Bagalkot.

A senior Congress leader said more than 20 ministers were asked to campaign and the CM and DCM, too, were there. This could have been avoided, he said. The budget implementation meetings usually start in April but so far no meeting has been convened.

BJP state President BY Vijayendra told TNIE that the government has neglected administration. "There is water scarcity in rural areas and no fodder. Why would officials work when the leaders are not bothered?" he questioned.

CM attends CWC meet, to seek separate appointment of Rahul

BENGALURU: Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Friday attended the Congress Working Committee (CWC) meeting chaired by AICC president Mallikarjuna Kharge in New Delhi. Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi and Wayanad MP Priyank Gandhi Vadra were also present. The agenda at the CWC was to discuss the Union Government's plan of delimitation of constituencies and the women's reservation law. The CM's legal advisor A S Ponnanna and Jewargi MLA Dr Ajay Dharam Singh, who are aspiring to be the ministers, had accompanied Siddaramaiah. The CM is expected to campaign in Tamil Nadu ahead of the Assembly elections as per the directives of the Congress high command, informed sources said. He is expected to take a separate appointment to meet Rahul Gandhi to discuss the state's political scenario and get nod for a cabinet reshuffle, sources added. Any decision is likely after the results of the five state Assemblies and bypolls to Davangere South and Bagalkot on May 4. "Siddaramiah is confident of winning the Bagalkot seat which will be a shot in the arm for him," a Congress leader said. Meanwhile, as planned some 20-25 senior Congress MLAs are scheduled to visit Delhi on Sunday and Monday to meet top brass leaders seeking cabinet berths during the reshuffle.

Vijayendra attends BJP meet in Delhi, stresses organisational push in K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi, Bengaluru

KARNATAKA BJP president BY Vijayendra participated in a crucial national meeting of the party chaired by its national president Nitin Nabinji in New Delhi on Friday.

Speaking to The New Indian Express over phone from the venue, Vijayendra described the meeting as a major organisational exercise. "The meeting is a significant step towards further strengthening the party's organisational reach across Karnataka and also across the country," he said.

Vijayendra added that the deliberations focused on reviewing the ongoing party's organisational activities.

"Nabinji's words energise the organisation and provide us clear directives in strengthening the party in Karnataka and across the nation," he said. The meeting assumes importance as the BJP seeks to expand and consolidate its organisational base nationwide.

In Karnataka, the party has long viewed the Old Mysore region as one of its weakest pockets, where it traditionally recorded the lowest vote share compared to the rest of the state. While a strategic alliance with JDS has considerably improved the BJP's performance in Old Mysore, many hardliners within the party are keen to build independent strength and win more votes on their own steam.

BJP insiders say the national-level review is part of a broader strategy to address such regional imbalances and ensure the organisation becomes self-reliant across all parts of Karnataka even as it pushes for greater national cohesion.

Siddu brought his son into politics to collect money: Kumaraswamy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

UNION Minister for Steel and Heavy Industries HD Kumaraswamy alleged that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has positioned his son, Yathindra Siddaramaiah, to collect money.

Speaking to reporters before attending the DISHA meeting on the zilla panchayat premises on Friday, Kumaraswamy claimed that officials are aware of how the Chief Minister's son operates.

"Siddaramaiah has no moral authority to speak about family politics. I have not brought my son into politics to collect money. If he is an unwavering leader, let him quit the Congress and win at least five seats for his own party. He should first prove that," Kumaraswamy challenged Siddaramaiah.

Accusing Siddaramaiah of hypocrisy, Kumaraswamy said the former had criticised the JDS for family politics but had himself inducted his son into public life. "When I was CM, I did not appoint my son to any committee or assign him responsibility over districts. After the death of his first son, Siddaramaiah brought his second son into politics. Was it not for collecting money? I have not done that, but his son is doing so now," the former CM alleged.

Kumaraswamy said Siddaramaiah often claims that the undivided Janata Dal won 58 seats when he was in the party. "Both HD Deve Gowda and I played a major role in that victory. His contribution was minimal. In 1999, when he was the party president, how many seats did the party win?" he asked.

Kumaraswamy further claimed that Siddaramaiah and senior leader HC Mahadevappa had once approached Gowda seeking support. "They came to his house and pleaded emotionally. It would be better if Siddaramaiah recalls such instances," Kumaraswamy said.

'Betrayed party in name of AHINDA'

Kumaraswamy accused Siddaramaiah of sidelining the party leadership through his AHINDA platform. "In 2004, he neither campaigned in Mandya nor Ramanagara, and we did not invite him either. He later formed AHINDA and did injustice to Deve Gowda. He backstabbed the party," he said.

Referring to a narrow electoral victory, he added, "He once won by just 200 votes. People will not forgive him if he forgets the past now that he is in power. He should also introspect on why he lost from Chamundeshwari."

He further criticised the Congress' position nationally. "He speaks lightly about JDS, but in Tamil Nadu, Congress depends on DMK for seats. In Bihar, the party struggled to win even a handful. For a party in such a position, how appropriate is it to criticise us? We may be a regional party, but what is Congress' strength today?" Kumaraswamy questioned.

'Centre not responding to state's pleas to ease crunch'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AUTO GAS

FOOD and Civil Supplies Minister KH Muniyappa on Friday alleged that the Centre has not responded to the state's requests to help tackle the shortage of auto gas, which has affected over three lakh autorickshaw drivers across the state.

Addressing reporters here, he said the Centre is yet to respond to the requests of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, the chief secretary and the food and civil supplies department.

Muniyappa, who held a meeting with IOC, BPCL, HPCL and GAIL officials, however, claimed that there has been some improvement in commercial gas supply as 60% of the demand of hotels and restaurants has been met. But there has been no improvement in the supply of auto gas, he said.

"We are a major user of gas among the states in South India. I am urging the Centre again to ease the crisis as soon as possible," he said.

With regard to domestic LPG supply, Muniyappa instructed IOC officials to ensure refills to customers on every 26th day. The Union government has a policy that a cylinder lasts 25 days and accordingly, every household should get a refill on the 26th day, he said.

Claiming that he has written to the Union petroleum minister, he said that he will speak to the secretary concerned on the shortage of gas. Private companies should distribute cylinders as per the government's policy. "If the companies charge more, legal action will be taken against them," he said. He clarified that the state government will tackle issues such as selling LPG in black market, misuse of domestic LPG, and price rise. He urged Union minister Pralhad Joshi to intervene and help the state overcome gas shortage.

DECISION ON INTERNAL QUOTA SOON: MUNIYAPPA

Karnataka Food and Civil Supplies Minister KH Muniyappa, who is also Madara Mahasabha president, on Friday promised the SC Left Madiga community that the ruling Congress will soon take a decision on implementing internal reservation for the Scheduled Castes (SCs). "Our government is committed to the implementation of internal reservation. I have discussed it with Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and Social Welfare Minister Dr HC Mahadevappa. We will discuss it in the next cabinet meeting and implement it. There will be no confusion in this regard henceforth," he said, chairing Mahasabha's state executive committee meeting here. He urged the community members to participate in the national census and also become members of Mahasabha. "Madaras should set aside their work for 15 days and involve themselves in the census work for the benefit of the community. Only then will the population of our community be known," he said.

DKS confident of DMK alliance victory in TN

ENS @ Bengaluru, Chennai

KARNATAKA Deputy Chief Minister and KPCC president DK Shivakumar on Friday expressed confidence in the victory of the DMK-led Secular Progressive Alliance (SPA) in the upcoming Tamil Nadu Assembly elections, asserting that the coalition would return to power with a decisive mandate.

Congress, a coalition partner of the DMK, is contesting 28 seats out of 234 seats.

Addressing the media in Chennai after campaigning for SPA, Shivakumar said he had interacted with "lakhs of people" across Tamil Nadu and conveyed the message of the Congress leadership, including Rahul Gandhi and Mallikarjun Kharge. He praised the performance of the alliance government and said its development work would continue. "The DMK alliance will come hands down here. We will all fight together and continue the good work," he said.

Shivakumar's remarks came one day after the Congress released its manifesto for the April 23 elections. The manifesto, unveiled alongside Tamil Nadu Congress leaders, outlines several welfare and development measures.

Educationists, authors oppose Karnataka Public School Magnet plan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

OPPOSING the establishment of Karnataka Public (Magnet) Schools by closing government schools within a 5-6km radius of KPS schools, All India Democratic Students Organisation (AIDSO) organised a state-level convention on April 10 in Freedom Park in Bengaluru.

Hundreds of protesters, including parents, children, Kannada authors, educationists and AIDSO activists gathered at the convention to oppose the move. Kannada writer K Marulasiddappa said, "The Congress government has snatched away the people's right to education and handed out guarantee schemes instead. All governments ruling us have consistently protected the interests of wealthy businessmen while neglecting the poor. By snatching away people's right to education, healthcare and employment, the government is attempting to silence them with their guarantee schemes. Let us unite to fight for our neighbourhood schools against a government that fails to understand their importance."

Meanwhile, Dr VP Niranjanaradhya, a developmental educationist, stated, "In its election manifesto, Congress promised to completely reject NEP-2020 and strengthen education by introducing SEP (State Education Policy). However, it is shameful that it has undemocratically implemented the KPS Magnet Scheme, which is similar to the cluster school scheme stated in NEP."

Siddharth Rath, AIDSO All India Council joint secretary, said, "There is a nationwide conspiracy to systematically close government schools under various names, crushing the dreams of poor children. The merger of 14,379 schools in Odisha is a fresh example. This is not just an educational injustice but a horrific attack on our culture. Whenever the ruling class tries to suppress the working class, organized struggle has always triumphed. This fight against the KPS Magnet Scheme will achieve a historic victory." A state-level Save Public Education Committee was formed during the convention to save neighbourhood schools from closing down. Chaired by former vice-chancellor of Kannada University, Hampi, A Murigeppa, it includes renowned educationists, writers, social activists and parents from across the state.

Second integrated drop test for ISRO Gaganyaan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

INDIAN Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Friday announced the successful completion of the second Integrated Air Drop Test (IADT-02). The test is part of the ongoing preparation for the Gaganyaan mission.

The test was conducted at Satish Dhawan Space Centre, Sriharikota, on April 10. The first IADT was accomplished on August 24, 2025. In IADT-02, a simulated crew module, weighing 5.7 tonnes, equivalent to the mass of the first uncrewed Gaganyaan mission, was lifted by an Indian Air Force Chinook helicopter to an altitude of around 3km. It was then dropped at the designated location in the Bay of Bengal, near the Sriharikota coast. "This test marks another significant step towards readiness for the Gaganyaan mission," ISRO said.

In its release, ISRO said ten parachutes of four types were deployed in a precise sequence during the descent of the crew module, gradually reducing the velocity for safe touchdown. Subsequently, the simulated crew module was recovered in coordination with the Indian Navy. The IADT-02 test validated the parachute-based deceleration systems in the crew module, it added.

ISS crew mates interested to onboard BAS: Shubhanshu

SHUBHANSHU Shukla had then said that many of his crewmates on the ISS had expressed interest in going on board the BAS when it would be up and ready to conduct experiments in space.

HSFC chief Singh said on the sidelines of the final day of the three-day international conference on spacecraft mission operations SMOPS-2026, that ISRO is partnering with private firms who have created environment labs and areas for analog tests measuring performance, functionality and behavioural parameters. The tests will include simulations to build up stress resilience to cold, hypoxia, isolation and claustrophobia. These analog tests will include pilots, researchers, scientists, students and civilians. Singh said the Mapping of Interoperable Traits and Response Assessment (MITRA), conducted from April 2 to April 9 in Leh, Ladakh, was also done in a private organisational set up, which was attended by the four Gaganyaatris, researchers and scientists, and in which emphasis was laid on their physiological as well as psychological well-being. Singh said preparations for the first of the five modules for the 52-tonne BAS are already under way. The first module is scheduled to be lifted off into space in 2028, and the full assembly of the BAS in space is expected to be completed by 2035.

Hydropower stations generate record 15,509MU, K'taka among top states

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE saying old is gold proves true in case of Karantaka's hydropower generation. The state's oldest power stations, including Shivanasamudra, Shimsha, Sharavathi and Mahatma Gandhi Hydel Power Station at Jog Falls, have made Karnataka a leader in hydropower generation in India.

Karnataka Power Corporation Limited (KPCL) officials said the state hit an all-time record generating 15,509 million units (MU) of hydropower during the financial year 2025-26 from four stations in Sharavathi valley, four in Kali valley, two each in the Varahi and Cauvery valleys, and one each in Krishna and Tungabhadra river systems. This helped place Karnataka among the leading states in hydropower, with an installed capacity of 3.63 gigawatts. It was also recorded in the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation report released on March 30, 2026.

MD of KPCL and Additional Chief Secretary of Energy Gaurav Gupta said, "Consistent efforts are being made to meet the state's power demand, and some of the oldest hydropower stations have delivered an impressive performance. Improved maintenance practices played a key role in boosting generation, in comparison with the previous year's record of 13,853MU."

PROJECT	POWER GENERATED (MU)	ANNUAL TARGET (MU)	%HIKE
Sharavathi Valley	5,642	4,800	17.54

Gerusoppa Hydroelectric	644	1,060	39.24
Bhadra Hydroelectric	55	68	25.39
Mani Dam Hydroelectric	32	24	34.37

Sharavathi and Varahi valleys set another record in 2025-26 by together generating 8,696MU. Sharing details of power generation from individual power stations, KPCL officials said Mahatma Gandhi Station's highest record was 550MU in 2021-22, and 643MU in 2025-26, a 16.92% increase. Gerusoppa station set a record of generating 641MU in 2007-08, it has now increased to 644MU.

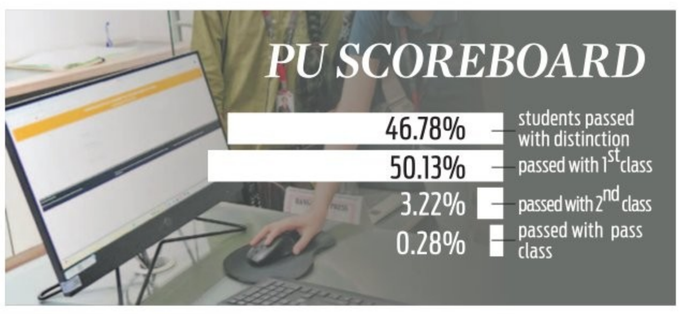
Residential colleges outperform state by 10.74 percentage points

Out of 72 residential PU colleges, 34 achieved 100% results



PU SCOREBOARD
46.78% students passed with distinction
50.13% passed with 1st class
3.22% passed with 2nd class
0.28% passed with pass class

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

STUDENTS from Karnataka Residential Pre-University Colleges under the Karnataka Residential Educational Institutions Society (KREIS) recorded an impressive 97.22% pass percentage in 2026, up from 91.64% in 2025, marking an increase of 5.58 percentage points.

Out of the 72 residential PU colleges, as many as 34 achieved 100% results. Of the 5,103 students who appeared for the exams, 4,961 cleared, while 142 did not pass.

Among those who cleared the exams, 2,321 students secured distinction, 2,487 passed with first class, 160 with second class, and 14 with pass class.

Addressing the media, Social Welfare Minister HC Mahadevappa said Ankit Bheemappa Karatgi of Morarji Desai Science PU Residential College emerged as the topper from the residential institutions, scoring 598 out of 600 and securing second rank in the state.

"We will provide a Rs 5 lakh scholarship to support his higher education as he comes from a poor background. His parents are daily wage labourers and such students deserve support," the Minister said.

He added that the residential colleges' pass percentage is 10.74 percentage points higher than the state average of 86.48%.

On students who did not clear the first exam, he said teachers are already preparing them for Exam 2, and they will be allowed to continue staying in hostels for preparation.

Like previous years, girls outperformed boys, with more than 50% of the successful candidates being girls, he said. Students who performed well will be felicitated on the birth anniversary of Dr B.R. Ambedkar on April 14.

KREIS, along with the Department of Social Welfare, has also been training students for competitive exams such as JEE, NEET and KCET. This year, 106 students cleared the first round of JEE.

"Earlier, only a few residential college students were trained for these exams. From this year, the training has been extended to all 72 colleges so that students are not deprived of opportunities to enter premier institutions such as IITs, IIMs, IISc and AIIMS," he added.

B'luru man serving life term scores 80%

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

IN a remarkable display of determination, a life convict lodged in Ballari Central Prison has secured 80.16% in the Second PUC Arts examination, earning praise from prison officials and the public.

S Ashok Kumar, a native of Bengaluru, has been serving a life sentence for the past nine years in connection with a murder case. Despite the constraints of prison life, he cleared the examination with a first class, setting an inspiring example of how education can transform lives even under challenging circumstances.

According to prison authorities, Ashok Kumar had expressed a strong desire to continue his education. The prison administration facilitated his enrolment through a distance education programme and ensured he received the required academic support. Officials arranged textbooks and study materials and provided a quiet space within the prison premises for uninterrupted learning. Relying largely on self-study and disciplined preparation, Ashok Kumar successfully completed the course and achieved an impressive score."This shows that with the right support, inmates can utilise their time productively and work towards self-improvement," an official said.

Warfare becoming faster, tech-driven: CDS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan said warfare is evolving at a rapid pace, becoming more complex, technology-driven and less predictable. He emphasised the need for structural and doctrinal reforms within India's armed forces, with a focus on reducing the military's reaction time.

On the sidelines of Ran Samwad 2026 that concluded, Chauhan said on Friday that traditional domains of land, sea and air remain relatively slower, structured and predictable, having evolved over decades. However, newer domains such as cyber, space and the electromagnetic spectrum are faster, less predictable and driven by rapid technological change. He said India is also reviewing its mandated military reaction time in view of the changing nature of warfare and evolving regional dynamics.

Modern conflicts, he noted, broadly reflect two patterns - prolonged, high-cost conventional wars such as those seen in Ukraine and Gaza, and precise, technology-driven "smart warfare." India must remain prepared for both large-scale conventional conflict and advanced, technology-enabled operations.

Chief Of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan addresses Ran Samwad 2026 at Air Force Technical college in Bengaluru on Friday

Against this backdrop, Chauhan highlighted theatre commands as a key reform to enhance operational efficiency, with the discussions concluded, the proposal will be presented to the Defence Minister and then to the cabinet.

The concept, which has consensus among the three services, separates force generation from force application, with service chiefs focusing on raising and sustaining forces, and theatre commanders handling operations. He added that aspects such as structure, location and sequencing are still under discussion and will evolve over time, with existing regional commands to be reorganised under theatre commands.

He said joint headquarters will integrate operations, intelligence and logistics, while intelligence systems will be streamlined. On multi-domain operations, he noted that models are still evolving globally, with India already issuing a doctrine being incorporated into training and exercises.

Chauhan emphasised that decisions on future platforms must be taken by individual services, while India's focus remains border security alongside humanitarian missions abroad. He highlighted indigenisation efforts as "phenomenal," and stressed that national security requires a whole-of-nation approach.

He added that discussions also focused on intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance, where the key challenge is not lack of information but the speed and quality of interpretation. Artificial intelligence and data analytics, he said, will transform decision-making cycles.

Earlier in his closing address, referring to the OODA loop conceptualised by John Boyd, he said victory will depend on completing decision cycles faster than the adversary, adding that predictive AI may allow forces to orient even before observing.

Highlighting the changing nature of conflict, Chauhan said warfare is moving beyond the physical domain into synthetic and cognitive realms, where outcomes are shaped not only on the battlefield but also at the political level.

Announcing the next edition, he said the 2027 'Ran Samvad' will be hosted by the Indian Navy, focusing on "high-intensity operations in a transparent and expanded battle space," with greater participation expected from younger and mid-level officers.

Post-poll, Kerala BJP targets church

Shone George says, he will file complaint with bishops over biased news targeting the BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kottayam

A day after the polling for the 2026 assembly elections, two prominent Christian leaders of the BJP tore into the Catholic Church hierarchy and the Church's mouthpiece, Deepika daily. Shone George, BJP state vice president and NDA candidate for Pala and his father, PC George, who is also NDA candidate for Poonjar, came down heavily against the Church and its mouthpiece, alleging that both campaigned against NDA candidates in the Assembly election.

Shone, who said he would reconsider his support for the Church "if the Church does not want BJP", later toned down his voice and said he would lodge a complaint to the bishops concerning what he viewed as unfairly biased news that targeted the BJP. He added that both the Church and its mouthpiece took an adverse stance against the NDA, despite Christian leaders in the BJP effectively intervening in issues affecting the Church, including the postponement of the FCRA bill.

"We intervened in the FCRA issue after taking the concerns of the bishops and the Church seriously. Subsequently, Parliament postponed the bill. The BJP and the Union government have already announced that they would hold discussions and resolve it. Despite this, attempts were made from various quarters to purposefully harm the BJP. I strongly condemn the campaigns carried out by the Deepika daily on election day," he said.

Meanwhile, PC George, in an expletive-ridden attack on bishops, alleged that Mar Jose Pulickal, the Bishop of Kanjirappally diocese, personally intervened to canvas votes for his rival candidate of UDF in Poonjar. "Kanjirappally bishop directed nuns in convents to vote for the UDF in the election. Is it right? What right does he have to say that? Is the Church part of the UDF?" he asked.

He referred to certain bishops as "shameless people", but clarified that his criticism was directed only at a section of bishops and not the Church as a whole. George added that the Bishop of Pala had not issued any directive to vote for any party.

EPS makes insensitive remarks against Kanimozhi, DMK MPs demand unconditional apology

CHENNAI: Meanwhile, DMK MPs on Friday came down heavily on Palaniswami for his derogatory remarks against Kanimozhi and demanded an unconditional apology and warning of legal action. Addressing reporters at Anna Arivalayam, DMK MP Thamizhachi Thangapandian and the party's doctors' wing chief Dr Kanimozhi N V N Somu accused the former CM of "speaking like a third-rated speaker" and said his language reflected the "panic of impending defeat" in the upcoming elections. "For the past one week, Palaniswami has been on a tirade. He first mocked the Deputy CM, then made an extremely distasteful reference to CM M K Stalin's health during the Covid-19 period, and now he has stooped down to insulting a woman parliamentarian," Thamizhachi said, adding that the remarks showed Palaniswami had "reached the peak of his fear" of finishing third in the upcoming polls. FAMILY ALLEGES FOUL PLAY, SAYS GIRL DRUGGED WHILE ALONE

SRINANDA'S mother, Rohini, alleged the possibility of foul play, claiming that someone might have taken advantage of the girl being alone and abducted her after administering drugs.

"My daughter was good in her studies. We had come here after 10 years, and this has struck our family like a bolt from the blue. A detailed probe must be conducted to find out whether it is a murder or an accidental fall," she said. The atmosphere at the site was described as heart-wrenching, with onlookers moved by the family's grief. Earlier, the girl's uncle, Sasikumar, had filed a missing complaint with police. Western Range IG Amit Singh had visited the spot and supervised the search operation.

Deputy Commissioner NM Nagaraj said it was unfortunate that the girl was found dead despite extensive efforts.

Superintendent of Police Jitendra Kumar Dayama said it was too early to conclude whether the death was due to a fall or suicide. "It is yet to be ascertained whether it was a slip or a jump. The case has been registered, and investigation will be carried out from all possible angles," he said, adding that the exact cause of death would be known after the post-mortem.

Officials said retrieving the body was a major challenge as it was stuck in deep crevices about 2,000 feet below the falls. The difficult terrain and advanced decomposition had complicated efforts. The body was taken out from the crevices by the ANF and the police team and brought down to Arisinaguppe village. Spot mahazar was conducted in the presence of DySP Nagaraj and statements were taken from the girl's father Ramesh.

The postmortem was conducted in the Mallegowda General Hospital and the body was handed over to the family members.

RELATIVES, NATIVES ALLEGE FOUL PLAY

PALAKKAD:The grief in Kadampazhipuram is still raw, and the questions surrounding Sreenanda's death only deepen the pain."She was a very active girl, always participating in competitions and winning prizes. Her room and the showcase at home are filled with trophies," said Rajan K, cousin of Sreenanda's father, Ramesh Gopalan. Rajan was among the 40-member family group that had travelled with her to Hampi and Chikkamagaluru. His voice still carries disbelief as he recalls the final moments. ENS

Piracy hits Vijay's flick, fraternity seeks action

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

AFTER reports that TVK president Vijay's movie 'Jana Nayagan' got leaked through few websites hosting pirated content on Friday, many from the cine industry rallied behind the producers to strongly condemn the leak and demanded stringent action on those behind it.

The movie produced by KVN Productions at an estimated cost of ₹450 crore, which was originally planned for theatrical release on January 9, is yet to be released as it is with the revising committee of the Central Board of Film Certification. The filmmakers' attempts to challenge the CBFC Chennai office's decision to refer it to the revising committee in courts were unsuccessful.

The film personalities who voiced support for the movie producers included actors Rajinikanth, Chiranjeevi, Suriya, Sivakarthikeyan and many others. The Film Employees' Federation of South India and the Tamil Film Active Producers Association condemned it and demanded stringent action.

Calling the act a serious criminal offence and copyright violation, the production house warned that anyone involved in downloading, sharing, or forwarding the leaked content will face legal action individually. "Every digital action is traceable, and we have already initiated necessary investigations, and complaints against persons involved and are actively identifying all others involved in the chain of circulation," it said.

CERTAINTY OF PUNISHMENT MORE POTENT DETERRENT THAN HARSH SENTENCE

CUSTODIAL violence is a disturbingly common reality in India. Public sentiment, reflected in films, has come to normalise and even valourise police excesses—a slippery slope that can range from a few slaps to planned extrajudicial killings. Underpinning the brutality is the almost-unchecked power bestowed by the assumption that uniformed personnel are acting for the greater good. But absolute power corrupts absolutely. This is how the father-son duo of Jeyaraj and Beniks came to be killed by 10 policemen in Tamil Nadu's Sathankulam in June 2020—about a month after the well-reported killing of George Floyd in the US.

Six years later, a trial court convicted and sentenced nine policemen in Sathankulam to death for torture and killing; a tenth cop died before the chargesheet was filed. The judgement, a rare case where uniformed personnel were held to account for custodial violence, comes less than a year after a temple guard was brutally beaten to death by police in Sivaganga district on the flimsy charge of theft. Between these two episodes of horror in Tamil Nadu are several other instances of alleged custodial torture and death—not only in Tamil Nadu, but across India. The government informed Parliament last month that custodial deaths increased from 140 in 2024-25 to 170 in 2025-26 (up to March 15).

Part of the corrupting power enjoyed by the police is the confidence of facing little or no consequence for their actions. In this case, it was facilitated by the dereliction of duty by other government servants—doctors and the magistrate. But notably, police constable S Revathy spoke up against her colleagues and appeared as a prosecution witness at grave personal risk.

The Sathankulam verdict, with references to Floyd's death and other instances of custodial violence, invokes the death penalty as a deterrent to check police impunity. However, it is not the death sentence—which has no place in a system of reformative justice—but the certainty of punishment that is the true deterrent. Governments must ensure errant police are prosecuted for their crimes, without exception and regardless of the innocence or guilt of their victims. Alongside them, doctors, magistrates and other government workers, who facilitate police excesses by omission or commission, must also be held to account. Only the certainty of meaningful punishment will erode the absolute power enjoyed by those in khaki.

CONSIDER A SOUTHERN LANGUAGE AS THE THIRD

THE Karnataka government's decision to opt for a dual-language policy of Kannada and English in this year's Class 10 exam, and giving grades rather than marks for the third language, appears peculiar. The reasoning is that it would reduce language pressure on students and promote Kannada—students have to score out of 525 marks in five subjects instead of 625 in six. This downgrade of the third language is in keeping with the State Education Policy, which Karnataka adopted instead of the National Education Policy. Academicians have largely welcomed the move considering the consistently low pass percentages. In the 2024-25 boards, of the 1,64,000 students who failed, 1,46,000 did not pass the third-language paper.

However, the decision has set off a political brouhaha. Like other southern states, the Karnataka government has resisted the 'imposition' of Hindi, with the Chief Minister declaring it cannot be 'enforced'. Though the state's parties are turning it into a Hindi-versus-Kannada issue, the ground reality gives a different complexion to the debate. Of 8.12 lakh students this year, 7.52 lakh opted for Hindi as third language; 32,135 for English, 11,483 for Kannada, 5,544 for Urdu and 5,159 for Sanskrit. Some experts also argue that a dual-language preference could lead to a lack of interest in teaching and learning the third language. We must bear in mind that a third language may not only serve as a link to a broader world, but can also foster better cognitive skills.

The NEP has remained contentious in the southern states although it offers a flexible formula of three languages with at least two being Indian, and a compulsory third language from Class 6 starting 2026-27. Tamil Nadu's political opposition to the way it is imposed has flared up in this election season again. Kerala has a three-language policy, but is against Hindi. Andhra Pradesh has a Telugu-Urdu-English formula. The BJP-ruled Maharashtra was forced to repeal its directive making Hindi mandatory for Grades 1 to 5.

While linguistic pride remains political fodder in the South, perhaps adopting another southern language as the third option could be considered. Apart from mobility, it can improve regional harmony, too. State leaders should keep in mind the interests of young generations while promoting multilingual education—not only in the region, but across the nation and the world.

QUICK TAKE

NOT A CHAPTER TO OPEN

THE Rajasthan education department has opened an indigestible chapter by launching Sarthak Naam Abhiyan (Meaningful Name Campaign), under which a child given a name deemed awkward or inappropriate would be allowed to change it to one from among 1,500-odd names selected by the government. Education Minister Madan Dilawar explained: "As children grow older, such names sometimes lead to embarrassment and may even affect self-esteem." One of the names the minister offered as example is 'Sheru'—which, ironically, is proudly worn by well-known Rajasthani folk musician Sheru Khan. It's deeply problematic to suggest renaming children, especially in a state where more than 30 percent of the population is made up of Scheduled Castes and Tribes. The move also dials back to the contentious global religious history of insisting on 'approved' names. Let's keep this chapter shut.

The tax devolution formula is just one of the several ways Kerala's resources are being constrained. Success in navigating the tough times ahead would require the courage to take unpopular decisions

THE CHOPPY FISCAL WATERS THAT AWAIT NEW KERALA GOVT

K M CHANDRASEKHAR
Former Cabinet Secretary and author of As Good as My Word: A Memoir

SOURAV ROY

THE 16th Finance Commission has initiated a paradigm shift in Indian fiscal federalism, pivoting toward a framework that incentivises states to deploy financial resources with greater strategic foresight. This shift is most evident in the introduction of a new parameter: contribution to GDP, assigned a weight of 10 percent. The demographic performance metric also underwent a critical recalibration.

These structural adjustments resulted in a redistribution of the divisible pool, bolstering the horizontal shares of southern states. Specifically, Kerala's share rose from 1.9 percent to 2.4 percent, while Karnataka's rose from 3.6 percent to 4.1 percent.

For Karnataka, which relies heavily on internal revenue to anchor its annual budget, this may represent a victory. However, for Kerala, the situation is far more nuanced. While the state's horizontal share was raised, it lost the revenue deficit grant of over ₹37,000 crore that was available during the 15th FC period. The new state government, scheduled to take office in May 2026, must navigate a fiscal landscape increasingly constrained by central diktats and global volatility.

Inequity begins with vertical devolution between the Centre and the states. While the central government distributes tax revenue based on Finance Commission recommendations, it has increasingly turned to the imposition of cesses and surcharges, which do not have to be shared with the states.

During the 15th FC, states should have received ₹12.2 lakh crore annually; in reality, they received only ₹9.5 lakh crore, reducing their share to less than 33 percent as against 41 percent recommended. The share of cesses surged from 11.4 percent in 2015-16 to 25 percent in 2020-21, with projections remaining near 17 percent for fiscal 2025-26. The Union finance minister stoutly defended this consolidation in March 2026.

The ethical and legal justification for such an expansion of non-divisible levies remains contentious. The Comptroller and Auditor General released a review in 2025 revealing that, since the mid-1970s, approximately ₹3.69 lakh crore collected via cesses had never been transferred to dedicated reserve funds.

In his paper, 'The Great India Cesspool: Funds and the Fiscal Deficit Shell Game', P Sesh Kumar, former director general of audit at the CAG, noted that the short transfer of these funds allows the Union to suppress its reported revenue deficit artificially. This practice presents a sanitised version of national finances—a manoeuvre Kumar likened to a household neglecting its bills to boast about its savings. Such findings suggest national fiscal deficit figures have been repeatedly obfuscated by whittling down the states' share.

Centrally-sponsored schemes introduce further structural friction. Under the current regime, states are mandated to bear 40 percent of the costs of most schemes, yet they have little agency in designing them. Because central schemes are designed with a one-size-fits-all rigidity, states like Kerala often find them ill-suited to their unique demographics.

Furthermore, the Centre's share is released through a digital just-in-time mechanism, meaning funds are disbursed only once existing balances are fully depleted. This lack of liquidity contributed to Kerala's share of total central disbursements falling to 1.8 percent during 2024-25, even though the state's population share is 2.8 percent.

Adding to these pressures is the Finance Commission's adoption of the Union's stance on state borrowing. The commission has recommended a limit of 3 percent of the state's GDP, a ceiling that encompasses off-budget borrowings—a policy currently under litigation in the Supreme Court.

This restriction directly cripples the Kerala Infrastructure Investment Fund Board. Originally conceptualised as a self-sustaining vehicle for developmental borrowing, KIIFB transitioned to an entity that receives earmarked budgetary resources spent at the discretion of its board, often bypassing budget and plan provisions. While I do not advocate fiscal profligacy—Kerala's debt-to-GSDP ratio has ballooned to 38.2 percent—the Centre's insistence on state-level discipline lacks moral authority, given its own fiscal deficit reached 4.4 percent in 2025-26 and is projected at 4.3 percent for 2026-27.

Excluding non-tax revenue from the divisible pool further tilts the scales. The Centre derives 18-20 percent of its revenue from dividends issued by the RBI, Sebi and public sector undertakings. While Kerala reports that 8-10 percent of its revenue is non-tax, this figure is a statistical illusion. Much of this comprises gross lottery ticket sales; once payouts and administrative overheads are deducted, the net contribution to the exchequer is marginal.

Consequently, Kerala finds itself caught in a tightening fiscal vise. Committed expenditures—salaries, pensions and interest payments—now consume over 70 percent of the state's total revenue. The current trajectory suggests that the new pay commissions in the Centre and the state may further increase the burden on the state. Compounding the crisis is the rupee's precipitous depreciation. This currency volatility implies that the state's external debt of more than ₹10,000 crore must now be serviced at costs 10 percent higher than when the obligations were originally incurred. Deprived of the revenue deficit grant, Kerala has emerged as a net loser. The silver lining is the state's growing GSDP, which promises more revenue if effectively harnessed.

The administration taking power in May will inherit a profound financial quagmire. While manifestos are replete with populist guarantees, the reality is that it remains easier to spend than to earn. The government's inaugural task must be to create an unvarnished, transparent map of the state's finances as Telangana did in 2023. This assessment must account for global geopolitical risks and potential economic disruption.

Success will require the courage to take unpopular decisions: rationalising user charges, addressing public-sector losses, restructuring establishment expenditure and plugging leakages in social spending. This strategic clarity is essential for achieving sustainable long-term growth and maintaining macroeconomic stability in an era of unprecedented fiscal centralisation. It is also necessary for all the 'single-engine' states to band together and raise their collective voice against the growing arrogation of resources by the Centre and the inequities in distribution, a can of worms left unopened by the Finance Commission.

AN EMERGING GRAMMAR OF CASTE

JOHN J KENNEDY
Former Professor and Dean, Christ (Deemed) University, Bengaluru

THE phrase "Not found suitable" sounds harmless enough. It carries no overt malice, no visible prejudice, just the dry neutrality of bureaucratic language. In fact, it is precisely the kind of phrase that passes unquestioned. And yet, in university recruitment rooms across India, it may be doing something deeply consequential: quietly keeping certain groups out.

To be clear, this concern is not speculative. Over the past few years, multiple media reports drawing on findings from the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Education (2023-24) have pointed to a troubling pattern. Despite meeting eligibility criteria, candidates from Scheduled Caste (SC) and Scheduled Tribe (ST) communities are increasingly being filtered out under the vague label of "Not found suitable". At the same time, the committee noted that thousands of reserved faculty positions in central universities remained vacant, with estimates indicating that over 60 percent of SC and more than 80 percent of ST professor-level posts unfilled. Seen together, these are not isolated gaps; they point to a structural problem.

If one looks more closely at faculty composition, the imbalance becomes even harder to ignore. Data from the All India Survey on Higher Education (AISHE) 2021-22 and submissions to the University Grants Commission show that central universities continue to be overwhelmingly dominated by general category candidates. SC and ST representation, especially at senior levels, remains in the low single-digit shares, far below the constitutionally mandated 15 percent and 7.5 percent.

The trend is not confined to one segment of higher education. In elite institutions such as the IITs, representation of SC and ST faculty is consistently reported to be extremely low, as highlighted in parliamentary discussions and RTI-based reports during 2022-24. Even at the entry level, where reservation policies are expected to work most effectively, representation improves only modestly before thinning out sharply as one moves up the hierarchy.

What explains this persistent gap? At first glance, universities tend to attribute it to a shortage of "suitable candidates". But this is precisely where the issue becomes more complex. Because what we are dealing with here is not simply a question of availability, but of how "suitability" itself is defined and applied.

In the past, caste discrimination in education was often blunt and visible: denial of access, segregation, or outright exclusion. Today, it is embedded in processes that appear neutral: shortlisting, interviews and selection criteria framed in terms like "merit," "fitness" and "suitability". The problem is not that these criteria exist, but that they are rarely transparent or standardised. As the Parliamentary Standing Committee noted, the repeated use

EXPRESS

More and more candidates for higher education faculty positions from Scheduled Caste and Tribe communities are being rejected with the opaque reason, 'Not found suitable'. At the same time, a parliamentary panel is flagging high vacancy in such reserved posts. We need clear, standardised criteria to judge suitability of suitability labels risks functioning as a structural barrier, allowing institutions to bypass reservation norms without formally violating them.

This is why the issue cannot be dismissed as an administrative anomaly. Because it reflects something deeper about how institutional systems work. In a society already shaped by entrenched inequalities, discretion is seldom neutral. When criteria remain undefined, and decisions are not subject to scrutiny, the system creates room for exclusion—quietly, consistently and without accountability.

Universities often defend themselves by citing due process and academic criteria. But this misses the point. Discrimination today does not occur despite procedure; it operates through it. The system is not being broken; it is being used to reproduce existing hierarchies.

This concern becomes sharper when placed within the broader climate of higher education. UGC data indicates that complaints of caste-based discrimination in higher education have risen significantly in recent years, from 173 cases in 2019-20 to 378 in 2023-24. This rise may partly reflect greater awareness and reporting, but it also signals that the problem is far from resolved.

There is also a cultural dimension that cannot be ignored. When caste-insensitive remarks surface in institutions, they do more than offend. They normalise indifference and trivialise caste concerns. Discrimination does not always require intent; it often thrives in such environments.

What, then, is at stake? Not just about jobs or representation. Universities are spaces where knowledge is created and legitimised. Who occupies them shapes what is studied, whose voices matter, and what counts as knowledge. Exclusion, therefore, has consequences beyond access. This brings us to responsibility. If universities are to matter in a democracy, they must rest on fairness, transparency and accountability. Recruitment processes should be transparent, with clearly defined criteria for suitability. Decisions declaring candidates "Not found suitable" must be recorded, justified and open to independent review.

The question, therefore, is not whether caste discrimination exists. There is ample evidence it does. The real issue is whether we recognise its changing forms. "Not found suitable" may sound administrative, but in context it becomes something else: not a neutral judgement of merit, but a quiet tool of exclusion that allows inequality to persist under the guise of fairness.

MAHATMA PHULE: GUIDING LIGHT OF SOCIAL REFORM

On his bicentenary, let's renew our commitment to concerns close to the reformer's heart—education, sensitivity to injustice and faith in the power of community

NARENDRA MODI
Prime Minister

TODAY is a deeply special day for all of us. It is the birth anniversary of Mahatma Jyotirao Phule, one of India's greatest social reformers and a guiding light for generations. This year, the occasion carries even greater significance, as it marks the beginning of his 200th anniversary celebrations.

Mahatma Phule was a great reformer. In addition, his was a life of moral courage, restless enquiry and unshakable commitment to social good. He is remembered for the institutions he built and the movements he led. At the same time, his contribution to our civilisational journey lies in the hope he aroused, the confidence he instilled and the strength his thoughts continue to give to millions of people.

Born in the great state of Maharashtra in 1827, Mahatma Phule emerged from modest beginnings. But his initial hardships never stood in the way of his learning, his courage or his commitment to society. This is a trait that remained with him forever: whatever be the challenges, one must work hard, acquire knowledge and mitigate those challenges. From his school days, young Jyotirao was deeply curious and became a voracious reader, often reading books far beyond what children his age were expected to engage with. Years later, he said, "The more questions we generate, the more knowledge emerges from them." Clearly, the spirit of enquiry he was blessed with since his childhood remained constant in his journey.

Throughout his life, learning and education became central to Mahatma Phule's mission. He recognised with rare clarity that knowledge is not a privilege to be guarded, but a force to be shared. At a time when the joys of learning were denied to many, he opened pioneering schools for girls and for those kept out of formal education. He used to say, "Any improvement that comes in children through mothers is deeply valuable. Therefore, if schools are to be opened, they should first be opened for girls." He worked to create a new social imagination in which the classroom became an instrument of justice and equality.

His vision for education inspires us greatly. Over the last decade, we have worked to make research and innovation a cornerstone for the youth of India. Efforts are being made to create an ecosystem where young minds are encouraged to question, explore and innovate. By investing in knowledge, skills and opportunity, India is empowering its youth to become problem-solvers and drivers of national progress.

NO REMEMBRANCE OF JYOTIRAO PHULE CAN BE COMPLETE WITHOUT MENTION OF HIS WIFE SAVITRIBAI PHULE, A PIONEERING TEACHER. DURING A PLAGUE OUTBREAK IN 1897, SHE SERVED WITH SUCH DEVOTION THAT SHE CONTRACTED THE DISEASE AND LOST HER LIFE

Due to his knowledge and wisdom, Mahatma Phule developed a strong understanding of areas such as agriculture, healthcare and rural development. He often said that injustice towards our farmers and workers weakens our society. He saw how social inequalities manifested themselves in daily life, be it in the farms or in villages. Hence, he immersed himself in ensuring dignity for the poor, the downtrodden and the marginalised. At the same time, he made every possible effort to ensure social harmony was maintained.

Mahatma Phule opined, "True freedom cannot be achieved until everyone in society is granted equal rights." And for that, he built institutions that translated this vision into action, contributing to a just society. The Satyashodhak Samaj founded by him was one of the most important social reform movements in modern India. It was at the forefront of social reform, community service and furthering human dignity. It became an effective voice for women, youngsters and those living in villages. This movement reflected Mahatma Phule's intrinsic belief that society could be strengthened by placing at its core justice, respect for every person and a spirit of collective progress.

His personal life, too, carried lessons in courage. Always working and being among the people took a toll on his health. But even the most serious health challenges did not dim his resolve. After suffering a debilitating stroke, he continued to work and fulfil his vision. Yes, his body had been tested, but his commitment to society had not yielded. For millions today, especially those who draw courage from struggle, this remains one of the most powerful dimensions of his life.

No remembrance of Jyotirao Phule can be complete without a respectful mention of Savitribai Phule, who was herself one of the tallest reformers of our nation. As one of India's pioneering women teachers, she played a defining role in advancing education for girls, thus giving them the opportunity to pursue their dreams. After Mahatma Phule's passing, Savitribai carried forward that torch and, in 1897 during a plague outbreak, she served victims with such devotion that she herself contracted the disease and lost her own life.

Our land has been blessed, time and again, by great men and women who have strengthened society through thought, sacrifice and action. They did not wait for change to arrive from somewhere else. They became its source. For hundreds of years in our land, the clarion call for social betterment has often risen from within society itself, from those who could see suffering clearly and refused to accept it as fate. Mahatma Phule was one such voice.

I fondly recall my visit to Pune in 2022, when I had offered tributes to Mahatma Phule at his grand statue in the city. As we mark the beginning of his bicentenary year, the most fitting tribute to Mahatma Phule is about renewal. Renewal of our commitment to subjects close to his heart, such as education. Renewal of our sensitivity to injustice. Renewal of our faith that society can improve itself from within. His life tells us that the power of community can achieve miracles in India when joined with moral clarity and public purpose. That is why he still gives strength to millions. That is why his words and work still carry hope. And that is why, nearly 200 years after his birth, Mahatma Jyotirao Phule remains not a figure of the past, but a guide for India's future.

Harivansh nominated for 3rd term in Upper House by Prez, takes oath

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

IN a sudden development amid ongoing speculation over his continuation, Rajya Sabha's outgoing Deputy Chairman Harivansh Narayan Singh was nominated to the House by President Droupadi Murmu late on Thursday evening.

With this nomination under the President's quota against a vacancy that arose following the retirement of a former CJI as the member of the House, Harivansh will serve a third consecutive term as a member of the Upper House. His second term as a Rajya Sabha MP expired on April 9.

Hours after being nominated, Harivansh took an oath as a member of the Upper House on Friday. He was sworn in by Rajya Sabha Chairman C P Radhakrishnan, taking the oath in Hindi. His nomination followed a vacancy created by the retirement of former Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi.

Leader of the House in the Rajya Sabha J P Nadda, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, Minister of State for Law and Justice Arjun Ram Meghwal, and Minister of State for Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare Ram Nath Thakur were present during the oath-taking ceremony.

Nomination follows vacancy created by ex-CJI

Hours after being nominated, Harivansh took an oath as a member of the Upper House on Friday. He was sworn in by Rajya Sabha Chairman C P Radhakrishnan, taking the oath in Hindi. His nomination followed a vacancy created by the retirement of former CJI Ranjan Gogoi.

Harivansh, 69, has completed two terms as a Rajya Sabha member representing Bihar and has also served as Deputy Chairman of the Upper House. Speculation now surrounds whether he will continue as Deputy Chairman of the Rajya Sabha following his nomination against a vacancy created by the retirement of a nominated member, particularly as the JD(U) did not re-nominate him for a third term. A senior journalist-turned-politician, he was earlier elected to the Rajya Sabha from the JD(U) quota and is considered close to JD(U) chief and Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar.

Before Harivansh took oath, Nitish Kumar was administered the oath as an RS member by Chairman C P Radhakrishnan. This marked the beginning of Kumar's first term in the Rajya Sabha, and he is expected to resign as Bihar Chief Minister, potentially paving the way for the BJP to install its own leader in the role in the coming days.

Delimitation to have grave fallout: Cong

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

ASSERTING that the Modi government's proposed delimitation exercise related to the implementation of the women's reservation law would have "grave consequences", Congress on Friday said it will call a meeting of opposition parties to devise a joint strategy ahead of the Special Parliament session next week. At a meeting of the Congress Working Committee (CWC), the party said that party chief Mallikarjun Kharge will call the meeting, most likely on April 15.

It also reiterated the demand that an all-party meeting be called by the government after polling for the West Bengal election is over.

Addressing a meeting of the CWC to discuss and formulate its strategy on the government's move to amend the women's reservation law, Kharge said it would formulate a collective strategy to move forward "unitedly".

Calling for a thorough deliberation, he said the proposed amendments are of such a nature that they can potentially have a profound impact on the country's electoral system.

The government is convening the sitting of Parliament from April 16 with the sole intention of securing political advantage, which is a "violation" of the Model Code of Conduct (MCC), and is keen to pass the Constitutional Amendment Bill in "utmost haste", he said.

Kharge says Centre keen to pass bill in 'utmost haste'

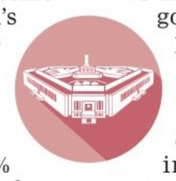
The government is convening the sitting of Parliament from April 16 with the intention of securing political advantage, which is a "violation" of the MCC, and is keen to pass the bill in "utmost haste", Kharge said. In his opening remarks, he said that after a prolonged silence, the Modi government has suddenly become active regarding the issue.

SHEKHAR YADAV

To date, we have not received any formal proposal from the government regarding this matter. We got to know some points only after reading an article authored by the Prime Minister

—Mallikarjun Kharge, Congress president

In his opening remarks, Kharge said that after a prolonged silence, the Modi government has suddenly become active regarding women's reservation. "In this context, a session of Parliament is scheduled to be held between April 16 and 18 to address the matter of providing 33% reservation for women in the Lok Sabha and state Legislative Assemblies. To date, we have not received any formal proposal from the government regarding this matter. We got to know some points only after reading an article authored by the PM," Kharge said.



"Based on the information we have received so far, the government wants to implement women's reservation starting from the 2029 elections. In addition, it wants to increase the current seats in the Lok Sabha and state assemblies by 50%.

"It wants to increase the number of seats in the Lok Sabha from 543 to 816. There will also be a proportional increase in the state assemblies," he said. Kharge said this delimitation proposal will have "grave consequences"and therefore, there is a need for very deep deliberation on delimitation.

"The Modi government is calling this parliamentary meeting with the intention of gaining political advantage. It wants to pass the Constitution Amendment Bill as quickly as possible," Kharge said.

He pointed out that opposition parties had written to Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju, requesting that the government convene the all-party meeting after April 29, the final day of polling for the West Bengal elections, to facilitate a serious and substantive discussion on this matter.

However, despite their collective appeals, the government disregarded their suggestions, opting instead to prioritise narrative-building and electoral gains, Kharge alleged. He pointed out that the parliamentary sittings have been convened at a time when the majority of MPs are preoccupied in their respective constituencies due to the ongoing assembly elections.

Later, addressing a press conference after the meeting, Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh said the issue is not women's reservation but it is about delimitation and there is no information on its details.

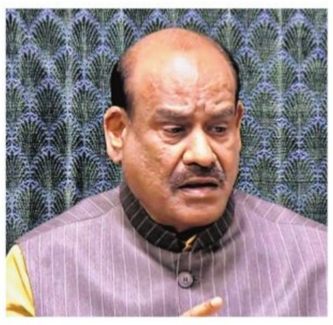
Birla hopeful of consensus on women quota bill

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AHEAD of the special session of Parliament on Women's quota law, Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla said on Friday that he was hopeful that the Women Reservation Act will be amended in the coming special sittings of the Parliament unanimously with the cooperation of all political parties.

Delivering the valedictory address at the conference of Commonwealth Parliamentary Association (CPA) India Region West Zone (Zone VII) in Goa, Birla said that greater participation of women would bring greater sensitivity to governance, making policymaking more people-centric and better aligned with societal needs. He added that women are playing leadership roles across sectors and are contributing a fresh and constructive perspective to governance and development.

Asked about the amendments to the Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam', (Women Reservation Act), Birla said the law was the first to be passed in the new Parliament in September 2023 when all political parties had supported it and it was passed unanimously.



'UNPARLIAMENTARY WORDS NOT ALLOWED'

Speaker Om Birla also said that use of unparliamentary words and display of banners and placards are not allowed within the House and within the Parliament complex. The Speaker said the language used should always be in conformity with the parliamentary traditions.

"Therefore, I am hopeful that the amendments to the 'Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam' would be done in the Parliament with everyone's cooperation unanimously," he said.

The proposed amendments to the Women Reservation Act will ensure an increase in the number of Lok Sabha seats to 816, of which 273 will be reserved for women.

When asked about objections by the opposition parties on the timing of the three-day special sittings, the speaker said everyone is entitled to express their views but the responsibility for proposing the dates of a session rests with the government.

"The government has proposed the agenda for April 16, 17 and 18th. Subsequently, we will convene a meeting of the Business Advisory Committee, which comprises representatives from all political parties, to engage in deliberations. This is the established procedure and this has been going on for a long time," he said.

Birla also said that use of unparliamentary words and display of banners and placards are not allowed within the House and within the Parliament complex. The Speaker said the language used should always be in conformity with parliamentary traditions. "Furthermore, banners and posters must not be brought inside. We have issued a bulletin for this, and I have personally appealed to all members within Parliament, as well as to all political parties. It was discussed at the Business Advisory Committee meetings that the use of banners, placards, unparliamentary language, and sloganeering is not befitting of a democracy," he said.

The Speaker said everyone has expressed their agreement on this point and efforts are being made to strictly curb the use of unparliamentary language, as well as the practice of bringing banners and posters into the House.

Col Sonam Wangchuk, Kargil hero, passes away

JAVARIA RANA @ New Delhi

COLONEL Sonam Wangchuk (Retd), one of the earliest heroes of the 1999 Kargil War and a Mahavir Chakra awardee, passed away Friday following a heart attack at his residence in Ladakh. He was 61.

His career, spanning three decades and multiple theatres, came to be defined by a single night on a frozen ridge at 5,500 metres. Born in 1964 in Leh, Col Wangchuk studied at Modern School, Barakhamba Road, and graduated in History from Sri Venkateswara College, Delhi University. He was commissioned through the Officers Training Academy, Chennai, into the 4th Battalion of the Assam Regiment. He served across counter-insurgency deployments in the Northeast and India's IPKF mission in Sri Lanka before moving to the Ladakh Scouts, the Army's specialist high-altitude formation.

On the intervening night of May 30-31, 1999, then Major Wangchuk led a column tasked with securing Chorbat La in the Batalik sector. His men came under heavy fire during the advance. He launched what his gallantry citation called a "daring counter-ambush", dislodged their positions, and took the ridge. The operation marked the first successful offensive action by Indian forces in the Kargil War.

For "exceptional bravery in extreme climatic conditions", he was awarded the Mahavir Chakra, India's second-highest wartime gallantry honour. Within the Ladakh Scouts, he remained a reference point for high-altitude leadership.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh called him, a "proud son of Ladakh" who "exemplified resilience, steadfastness and service to the nation", saying his actions "inspired his men under high-altitude conditions."

Colonel Shrikant Purohit promoted to Brigadier rank

JAVARIA RANA @ New Delhi

NEARLY two decades after the Malegaon blast case derailed his career, Army officer Colonel Shrikant Prasad Purohit has been promoted to the rank of Brigadier. He was acquitted in the case last year. Col Purohit, who was a Lieutenant Colonel when he was named in the case in 2008, rose to the rank of Colonel through time scale promotion during the course of the trial.

He was acquitted in 2025 by a special NIA court after a 17-year legal ordeal. He was due to retire on March 31, 2026 as 54 years is the retirement age for Colonel, but the Armed Forces Tribunal put his retirement on hold, keeping him in service and within the promotion pipeline. Col Purohit had moved the tribunal following his acquittal. The retirement age for Brigadier is 56 years and the promotion effectively extends his service till 2028.

FAKE CURRENCY

A 50-year-old man was arrested with fake Indian currency notes in the Hayatnagar in Uttar Pradesh, officials said on Friday. During the operation, fake currency worth ₹20,000 was recovered.

70% of deleted voters are believed to be Muslims, who have supported TMC, in border dists ● Promises UCC in 6 months of coming to power

Roll cuts redraw fight, TMC's '21 gains under strain

SUBHENDU MAITI @ Kolkata

THE deletion of nearly 91 lakh voters in West Bengal after the Special Intensive Revision (SIR)—including 64 lakh marked as absent, shifted, dead, or duplicate (ASDD) and 27 lakh adjudicated electors—has triggered a crucial question: who gains between the ruling Trinamool Congress and the opposition BJP. Data from the Election Commission show the scale of deletions exceeds the TMC winning margins over BJP in over 15 districts in 2021, directly altering the poll arithmetic that defined the last contest.

The overall voter base in the state has shrunk by nearly 12%. From 7.66 crore voters before the SIR began on November 4 last year, the number now stands at approximately 6.76 crore. Alongside this reduction, the share of Muslim voters has dropped by more than 5%—a key factor in a state where minority voting patterns have historically influenced outcomes.

District-level data underscores the scale and uneven impact of these deletions. In Kolkata, which has 11 Assembly constituencies—all won by the Trinamool in 2021—the number of deleted voters stands at 6.97 lakh. This is significantly higher than the party's earlier lead of 4.55 lakh votes over the BJP.

In Nadia, a border district with 17 constituencies, 4.80 lakh voters have been removed. The figure is striking when compared to the narrow lead of just 20,903 votes that the TMC had secured over BJP. In that election, the BJP won nine seats while the ruling party managed eight.

North 24-Parganas, another crucial border district with 33 seats, has seen 12.07 lakh names deleted. This comes against a backdrop in which the TMC had enjoyed a lead of 9.13 lakh votes, winning 28 seats compared to the BJP's 5.

The pattern continues in North Dinajpur, where 3.63 lakh voters have been struck off—exceeding TMC earlier lead of 2.74 lakh. In South Dinajpur, 1.79 lakh names have been removed, more than three times the party's previous lead of 44,945 votes.

Murshidabad emerges as the most affected district. With over 70% Muslim population, it has witnessed the deletion of 7,48,959 names. Of 11,01,145 adjudicated voters, 4,55,137 have been deemed ineligible.

The scale of deletions across its 22 constituencies is significant in minority-dominated belts along the Indo-Bangladesh border. Constituencies such as Samserganj, Lalgola, Bhagbangola, Raghunathganj, Farakka, Suti and Jangipur have each recorded average deletions exceeding 60,000 voters. Samserganj alone has 91,712 ineligible voters—the highest in the state—while Lalgola follows with 68,475.

In 2021, the TMC dominated Murshidabad, winning 20 of 22 seats, while BJP secured just two. The district has 18 Muslim MLAs, reflecting its demographic and political profile.

POLL WALL ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS

Reduction in Muslim voters

Observers note the reduction in Muslim voters could carry implications. In the last Assembly polls, TMC had secured over 95% of the 90 seats where Muslim voters constituted 30% or more of the electorate. It also won around 102 out of 112 seats where the Muslim vote share was about 20%.

Owaisi snaps ties with Kabir after viral video

Aam Janata Unnayan Party chief Humayun Kabir suffered a setback on Friday after the AIMIM snapped alliance with the party. AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi said the party would contest the poll alone. The move came a day after the Trinamool shared a video of a person resembling Kabir allegedly demanding ₹1,000 crore from BJP in lieu of support. "The AIMIM cannot associate with anyone when it comes to integrity of Muslims is concerned. The AIMIM has withdrawn its alliance with Kabir's party in West Bengal," Owaisi added.

EAT AS MUCH FISH AND EGGS YOU WANT: SHAH IN BENGAL

SUBHENDU MAITI @ Kolkata

HOME Minister Amit Shah on Friday unveiled the BJP's West Bengal election manifesto, 'Sankalp Patra', offering the usual bouquet of promises, including cash transfers, job quotas for women, implementation of the Uniform Civil Code (UCC), and, curiously, a clear assurance that there will be no restriction on food habits.

The BJP promised a monthly allowance of ₹3,000 each for women and unemployed youth if it comes to power in West Bengal. The promise comes even as the party has accused the Mamata Banerjee government of allegedly giving bribes to voters through welfare schemes such as 'Lakshir Bhandar', which provides ₹1,500 to women, and 'Yuva Sathi', under which unemployed youth aged between 21 and 41 receive ₹1,500. The party also announced a 33% reservation for women in government jobs and the setting up of the Seventh Pay Commission for state government employees within 45 days of assuming office.

A key highlight of the event was the BJP clarifying its position on food practices in the state. Shah made it clear that a BJP government would not interfere with people's food habits. "Consumption of fish and eggs will not be stopped. This is a negative campaign against BJP by Trinamool," Shah said. He was referring to the claims of CM Mamata Banerjee, made in her rallies that BJP would impose restrictions on food habits, even fish and eggs.

The manifesto does not mention any curbs on food and meat products. West Bengal remains one of the few states in India where beef is legal, while in most states, buffalo meat is the only meat permitted.

On the question of his party's chief ministerial candidate, Shah said that a Bengali from Bengal would be the BJP's chief minister in the state if the party comes to power.

The manifesto also outlines a strong position on illegal immigration. Accusing the Trinamool government of appeasement politics for its minority vote bank, Shah said a BJP government would adopt a policy of "detect, delete and deport" against "infiltrators".

The Sankalp Patra promises implementation of the UCC within six months of the BJP coming to power.

10 killed as boat capsizes in Vrindavan

NAMITA BAJPAI & HARPREET BAJWA @ Lucknow/Chandigarh

AT least 10 lives were lost and 24 others rescued when a boat carrying a group of pilgrims from Punjab capsized at the Keshi Ghat along the river Yamuna in Vrindavan in Mathura district on Friday afternoon.

As per official sources, a group of 32 people, including children, had set out on a Yamuna trip in a private steamer. They were part of a larger group of approximately 125 pilgrims from Ludhiana and Muktsar in Punjab.

PM Narendra Modi and Uttar Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath and Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann expressed grief over the tragedy in Mathura.

Talking with this newspaper, Ludhiana Deputy Commissioner Himanshu Jain said that around 125 people from the state had gone to UP for pilgrimage; of these, around 90-95 were from Ludhiana alone. They were mostly from Dhugri and Jagroan. "As families have gone, we are trying to get in touch with their relatives back here. I have myself spoken to the district magistrate Chandra Prakash Singh", he added.

Police said 10 bodies were recovered so far. DIG Agra Range Shailesh Pandey confirmed 10 deaths in the boat tragedy.

Mathura DM Chandra Prakash Singh told the media persons that the incident occurred around 3 PM on Friday. He said that the accident took place on the Yamuna river, when the boat collided against the pontoon bridge.

Based on accounts provided by witnesses, it seems that the boat crashed into the pontoon bridge, leading to the accident.

Teams from the Fire Services and the Police, along with local divers and boatmen, are all actively engaged in relief and rescue operations here," said the DIG, adding, "Teams from the NDRF and SDRF have also departed from their respective bases." A search is currently underway for all individuals who remain missing...".

According to police, 24 individuals were rescued and shifted to hospitals and a probe is underway to determine how many of them are safe.

Mathura SP (Rural) Suresh Chandra Rawat said that the boat sank in the river in the stretch near Keshi Ghat. Those rescued were immediately transported to the hospital via ambulances and eight PRV (Police Response Vehicle) units.

As per the eyewitness's account, the boat began to sway midstream due to gusty winds, its speed increased, and it collided with a pontoon bridge, causing it to overturn.

A survivor from Jagraon said the group had gone to Vrindavan in two buses. He added that they had warned the boatman as they approached the pontoon bridge, but he did not slow down; thus, the boat on the third attempt collided with the bridge and capsized.

Monalisa's marriage to Farmaan in legal trouble

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

MONALISA, the viral blue-eyed bead seller girl who became an internet sensation during the 2025 Mahakumbh in Prayagraj, is at the centre of a legal controversy in Madhya Pradesh related to her marriage with Farmaan Khan.

Monalisa's father Jaisingh Bhosale made a complaint against Khan, from Baghpat in Uttar Pradesh, at the Maheshwar police station of MP's Khargone district last month. Khan has been booked under Section 137(2) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita on the charge of kidnapping, which is punishable with seven years of imprisonment. Monalisa had married Khan on March 11 at a Kerala temple and is a teenager.

On March 17, a social activist based in UP had complained to the National Commission for Schedule Tribes (NCST), making charges of enticement, entrapment through fraud, and conspiracy into an inter-religious marriage, and the violation of human rights related to a minor. Following this, the tribal rights body conducted an enquiry in MP and Kerala.

The NCST investigation was conducted under the supervision of Antar Singh Arya, a former MP minister and BJP MLA from Barwani. It concluded that on March 11, 2026, the day she married Khan, she was aged 16 years, two months and 12 days, hence was a minor. The probe concluded that authorities at the Kerala temple, where the marriage took place, reportedly relied on Aadhaar and a fake birth certificate provided by the couple, instead of hospital records on birth certificate.

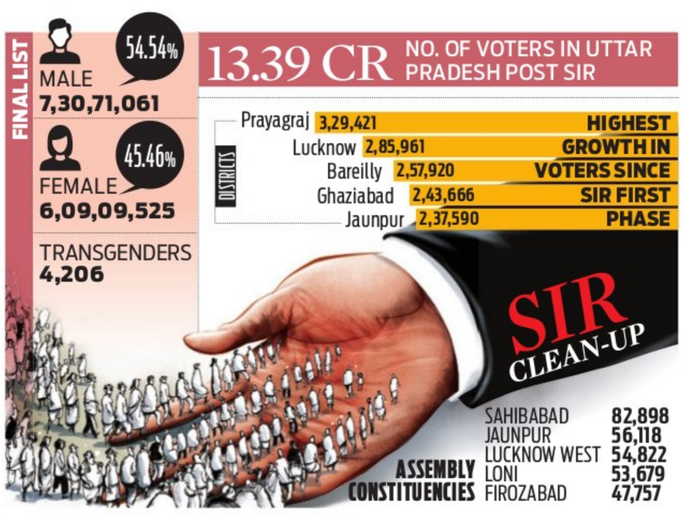
UP's final voter list out, 2 crore names deleted

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE State Election Commission of Uttar Pradesh has published the final voter list following the completion of the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) exercise. It shows the number of voters in the state to be 13.39 crore.

Sharing the draft of final voter list on Friday, Chief Electoral Officer Navdeep Rinwa said that it had 2.05 crore voters less than the number of voters that existed in the official records when the SIR began. There were 15.44 crore voters in the state records on October 27, 2025, when the first phase of the SIR exercise began, but it came down to 12.55 crore voters after the first phase of revision ended on January 6, 2026.

As per the final roll released on Friday, the state now has 7,30,71,061 male (54.54%), 6,09,09,525 female (45.46%) and 4,206 transgender voters. The number of first-time voters in age group of 18-19 years stands at 17,63,360, while the gender ratio is 834:1,000.



According to Rinwa, Uttar Pradesh registered a net increase of 84,28,767 voters in the final draft list from the first list released on January 6. This rise includes 42,27,902 additional male, 42,00,778 female, 87 third-gender and 14,29,379 first-time voters. The final list shows the gender ratio has marginally improved, Rinwa said.

Rinwa said Prayagraj recorded the highest growth in voter numbers, with 3,29,421 new voters, followed by Lucknow (2,85,961), Bareilly (2,57,920), Ghaziabad (2,43,666), and Jaunpur (2,37,590). But at the level of assembly segments, Sahibabad saw the highest increase with 82,898 new voters, followed by Jaunpur (56,118), Lucknow West (54,822), Loni (53,679), and Firozabad (47,757).

Rinwa said that between January 6 and April 10, a total of 8,15,996 voters were deleted from the list, out of which, 3,50,026 names were deleted for not responding to notices sent to them by the Election Commission after the completion of the first phase.

The official added that notices were served on a total of 3.26 crore voters, from which 3.28 lakh names were deleted as they had shifted out, 79,076 names were deleted due to the entries appearing at multiple places, 55,865 were deleted due to death and 2,069 names removed because either the voters were underage or not Indian citizens.

Raj to police what you're called, name dropping to acquire a new meaning

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

IF you have ever winced while answering to Kajormal or Sheru, relief may be on the way. The Rajasthan government has unveiled a plan to swap out awkward names for more "meaningful" ones, courtesy of the newly minted Sarthak Naam Abhiyan.

Announced at Jaipur's Shiksha Sankul earlier this week, Education Minister Madan Dilawar argued that some traditional names, however well intentioned, can invite ridicule and dent confidence. His exhibit A: Kajormal and Sheru, now unofficial mascots of the problem.

The department has compiled roughly 1500 alternatives, promising something dignified for every child. The minister pointed out that in some communities, names are perceived as disrespectful;in such cases, provisions will be made to change both first names and surnames in a "dignified" manner. Schools will raise the topic with parents during admissions.

> Some traditional names, however well intentioned, can invite ridicule. In some communities, many names are perceived as disrespectful; in such cases, provisions will be made to change both first names and surnames in a 'dignified' manner
> Madan Dilawar, Education Minister

Officials say the aim is simple: spare children embarrassment and bolster self-esteem. Criticshear something louder. Sociologist Rajiv Gupta is forthright: "Parents name their children based on local customs, language, and beliefs. replacing them under pressure with ones deemed 'decent', means this idea of'decency' becomes directly linked to a process of cultural homogenisation."

Others see politics in the syllables. Parent representative Abhishek Jain Bittu says the ministry is chasing a sliver of cases while fee hikes, textbook quirks, and RTE admissions sit unattended. Congress leader Pratap Singh Khachariyawas calls naming a parental prerogative, not a bureaucratic hobby.

For now, the state promises consent and choice. Students named Sheru might yet graduate as something grander, or not. But Gupta says it's part of theBJP's Hindutva agenda to change names of roads, buildings and schemes topropagate Hinduism.

If Dilawar gets his way, name dropping will acquire a new meaning in Rajasthan.

Siliguri mayor releases nine-point pledge

Veteran Trinamool Congress leader and mayor of Siliguri Municipal Corporation Gautam Deb, who has been pitted from the Siliguri Assembly seat in Darjeeling district, on Thursday released a nine-point pledge. He also made it conditional that all promises would be materialised if he wins the election. The promises include major infrastructural development plans, like the construction of an elevated bridge from Sevoke Road to Surya Sen Park, parallel to Hill Cart Road, the upgradation of the Kanchenjunga Stadium to develop it into a sports village of international standards, and a cricket stadium.

ED summons minister Sujit Bose again

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Friday yet again summoned two TMC ministers, Sujit Bose and Rathin Ghosh, in connection with the alleged municipal service recruitment scam ahead of the upcoming assembly elections in the state. According to sources in the ED probing the scam, the central investigating agency may take legal actions against the two ministers if they fail to appear before the agency. This is the third time the agency has issued notices to them to face interrogations at the CGO complex in Salt Lake City. The ruling party has fielded Bose and Ghosh from the Bidhannagar and Madhyam assembly seats.

Jadavpur University rules on noise restrictions

In a bid to streamline norms related to noise restrictions, Jadavpur University (JU) has directed that any student organisation or department planning an event on campus must submit an undertaking assuring that all prescribed noise rules will be strictly followed. A recent circular issued by the university states that if organisers use a sound system, they must provide details of the agency supplying it and ensure it is equipped with "noise limiters. The 10-point undertaking, which the organisers must submit to a panel that will decide whether the event will be allowed, also states that they must ensure there is no "untoward gathering/untoward incident".

White House steered Pak PM's post on Iran, says NYT

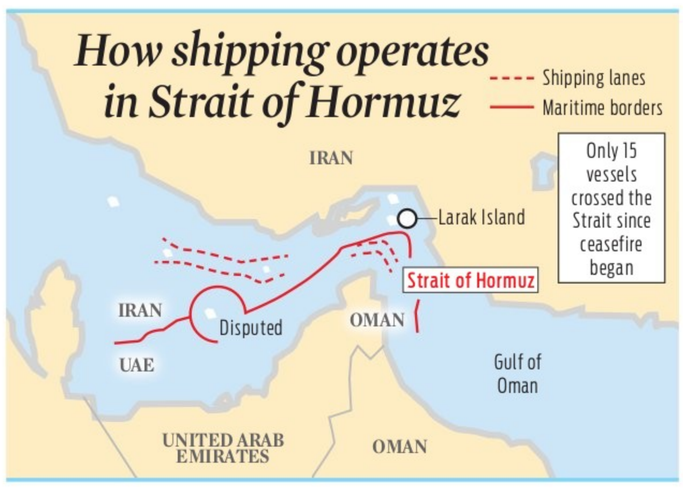
Sharif's purported appeal to Trump on ceasefire was drafted, fine-tuned by White House

WASHINGTON

THE White House was "directly involved" in shaping a social media post by Pakistan Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif in which he "earnestly" requested US President Donald Trump to extend his April 7 deadline on Iran for two weeks, according to a media report.

The New York Times said the "White House was directly involved in shaping the message" that was shared on X on Tuesday by Sharif in which he wrote "diplomatic efforts for peaceful settlement of the ongoing war in the Middle East are progressing steadily, strongly and powerfully with the potential to lead to substantive results in near future".

"To allow diplomacy to run its course, I earnestly request President Trump to extend the deadline for two weeks," he said. Sharif also requested Iran to open the Strait of Hormuz for a corresponding period of two weeks as a goodwill gesture. The US and Iran agreed to a two-week conditional ceasefire on Wednesday, followed by a face-to-face meeting in Islamabad to settle the differences and convert the ongoing truce into a lasting peace.



Describing it as a "last-ditch public plea", the NYT report said Trump's 8 pm deadline for Iran was fast approaching, and "Pakistan was trying to orchestrate an off-ramp for both sides". "So Shehbaz Sharif took to social media," it said, noting that Sharif had tagged Trump and other top advisers.

WAR WATCH

NYT said Sharif adopted "Trumpian parlance" when he wrote the post Tuesday afternoon. But behind the scenes, the White House had already seen and signed the statement before Sharif posted it, citing a person in the know. "And it showed White House — even as Trump was threatening to wipe out Iran's civilization— was actively looking for a way out of the crisis as the deadline drew near on Tuesday," NYT said.

The report further said a White House official denied that Trump wrote the statement, a speculation that arose when social media users pointed out that Sharif had initially posted the statement with the header: "Draft - Pakistan's PM Message on X". PTI

Starmer says NATO is in the interest of US

DOHA: British Prime Minister Keir Starmer insisted on Friday that NATO was "in America's interests" as he ended a three-day visit to the Gulf to discuss bolstering the "fragile" Middle East truce. Starmer's comments followed US President Donald Trump's renewed attacks this week on the Western military alliance and his threats to withdraw from it, after a refusal by NATO allies to join the US-Israel war against Iran. "It is in America's interests. It's in European interests," Starmer told UK broadcasters.

Viktor Orban

Once liberal Orbán eyes far-right image after elections

BUDAPEST

HUNGARIAN Prime Minister Viktor Orbán, EU's longest-serving leader and one of its biggest antagonists, has taken a long road from his early days as a liberal, anti-Soviet firebrand to the Russia-friendly nationalist admired by the global far-right today.

After dominating Hungarian politics for more than two decades, the 62-year-old could suffer a defeat during Sunday's elections which could bring his 16-year reign to a spectacular end. Most polls have him at a double-digit deficit — despite a recent visit from US Vice President JD Vance meant to boost his chances.

Facing the center-right Tisza party and its popular leader, Péter Magyar, Orbán has deployed a barrage of disinformation and AI-generated smear ads, and warned voters that bankruptcy and all-out war would come to Hungary if he loses. Orbán, a symbol of the country's burgeoning democracy in the 1990s, has resorted to tactics that would have shocked his early supporters, and likely his younger self.

Beloved by many older and more rural Hungarians and reviled by detractors, Orbán has emerged as the country's most consequential leader since its transition to democracy at the end of the Cold War.

Using the power of the state, Orbán has transformed public media into a mouthpiece for his party, and spent billions on state-funded communication in billboards, ads and letters. AP

Pakistan's Khawaja Asif calls Israel 'evil', deletes post

TEL AVIV

IN a strong denouncement of "outrageous" remarks made by Pakistan Defence Minister Khawaja Asif, Israel has raised doubts about his country's role as a "neutral arbiter".

"Pakistan Defence Minister's call for Israel's annihilation is outrageous," the Israeli Prime Minister's Office said in a post on X.

"This is not a statement that can be tolerated from any government, especially not from one that claims to be a neutral arbiter for peace," the PMO said Thursday evening.

Khawaja Asif, Pak defence minister

Pakistan has been credited with mediating a temporary two-week ceasefire between US and Iran and is preparing to host peace talks over the weekend.

However, Asif, in a social media post, called Israel "evil" and a "curse for humanity", giving a call "to get rid of European Jews". "Innocent citizens are being killed by Israel, first Gaza, then Iran and now Lebanon... I hope and pray that the people who created this cancerous state on Palestinian land to get rid of European Jews [sic] burn in hell," Asif wrote.

Asif deleted his post after backlash from Israel. The post sparked outcry in Jerusalem, which said it called into question Pakistan's ability to mediate between the US and Iran.

Asif also claimed that as "peace talks are underway in Islamabad, genocide is being committed in Lebanon".

Israeli Foreign Minister Gideon Sa'ar also condemned Asif's comments, saying, "These blatant antisemitic blood libels from a government claiming to mediate peace." "Israel will defend itself against terrorists who vow its destruction," Sa'ar said. PTI

GAZA MARKS 6 MONTHS OF CEASEFIRE

GAZA STRIP

FRIDAY marked six months since Gaza's ceasefire deal took effect, a milestone largely lost in the confusion over the new and even more fragile ceasefire in the Iran war.

Not long ago, the US-created and Trump-led Board of Peace kicked off with $7 billion in pledges and sweeping intentions of resolving not only Gaza but other conflicts around the world. Nine days after the board's initial meeting, the US and Israel attacked Iran.

The Board of Peace has not met again, and it's still waiting for Hamas to respond to its proposal on disarming, a major concession and perhaps the hardest step. Hamas' charter calls for destroying Israel.

A US official said Hamas has not been given a definite deadline to respond to the proposal but added that "patience is not unlimited." The official was not authorized to comment publicly and spoke on condition of anonymity.

The lack of a deadline can weaken pressure to act. Meanwhile, diplomacy is busy putting out different flames.

Board of Peace director Nickolay Mladenov told the U.N. Security Council last month that the world should not lose sight of Gaza as a new war flared. The choice in Gaza is between "a renewed war, or a new beginning; the status quo, or a better future," he added. "There is no third option."

Palestinians might suggest a third option: neglect. Six months into the Gaza ceasefire that took effect on Oct. 10, little beyond the largely silenced explosions has changed.

Vast tent camps house most of the territory's population. Other residents shelter in damaged apartment buildings. The US 20-point ceasefire plan for Gaza is largely failing on the humanitarian front, five international aid groups said in a scorecard released Thursday. They said conditions have deteriorated further in Gaza since the Iran war began.

First Lady Melania denies connections to Epstein

WASHINGTON

US First Lady Melania Trump has denied connections to Jeffrey Epstein, telling reporters at the White House that any claims linking the two "need to end today", the BBC reported. In a surprise announcement on Thursday, the first lady called for congressional hearings for survivors of Epstein's sex trafficking. She also denied online rumours that Epstein introduced her to Donald Trump, calling them "mean-spirited attempts to defame my reputation".

It is unclear what prompted the announcement.

The intervention has produced a mixed response from Epstein survivors. One survivor, Lisa Phillips, described the statement as a "bold move" but questioned what more the first lady could do to support Epstein's accusers.

There was no prior indication from her office that she would make a statement on Epstein, and the White House did not share the topic earlier when her remarks were put on its daily schedule. The president told news outlet MS Now he did not know about his wife's statement ahead of time. Meanwhile, the New York Times quoted a spokesperson for Melania Trump as saying the president knew that the first lady planned to make a statement, but later said it was unclear if he was aware of the topic of the remarks.

SP Group renews call for Tata Sons listing

Listing would improve board accountability, widen investor base and unlock value for stakeholders: SP Group chair

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE Shapoorji Pallonji (SP) Group, single-largest external shareholder with 18.4% stake, has joined chorus calling for listing of Tata Sons, holding company of the Tata Group.

In a statement on Friday, SP Group Chairman Shapoorji Pallonji Mistry said: "As I have stated earlier, we would like to reiterate that a timely listing of Tata Sons is not merely a regulatory compliance, but a necessary evolution — one that will reinforce corporate governance and deepen transparency and accountability. These form the foundation of Tata Group."

He said Tata Sons' listing is in public interest, adding that a publicly listed holding company would improve board accountability, widen investor base, and help secure long-term value for stakeholders. Mistry said a listing would unlock value for millions of retail shareholders and create a more predictable and robust dividend stream for the Tata Trusts.

The SP Group's open call for listing of Tata Sons, an upper-layer NBFC, comes amid similar endorsements by two vice-chairmen of Tata Trusts — Venu Srinivasan and Vijay Singh.

The two were asked to resign from an associate trust, the Bai Hirabai Jamsetji Tata Navsari Charitable Institution after former trustee Mehli Mistry challenged their eligibility on the grounds of being non-Parsis. Both have since voiced support for listing Tata Sons. While Srinivasan resigned, Singh refused to do so.

The dozen-odd Tata Trusts, which together own 66.6% of Tata Sons, have consistently opposed the listing of the holding company. In fact, Chairman Noel Tata has reportedly made it a precondition for granting a third five-year term to Group Chairman N Chandrasekaran when the Tata Sons board met in February to consider his reappointment. However, the board did not proceed with the reappointment. The next board meeting is scheduled for June.

As the single-largest minority shareholder with an 18.4% stake, the listing of Tata Sons could help debt-laden SP Group deleverage. Last week, it was reported that the group secured additional time from its creditors to repay $3.5 billion that was due in May. Mistry added: "A listing will unlock value for millions of retail shareholders, create a more defined and robust dividend stream for Tata Trusts, and expand social and philanthropic impact that benefits the poorest sections of our country."

Since Tata Sons became net debt-free in March 2023 — a precondition for exiting the RBI's list of large NBFCs — and applied to surrender its NBFC licence in August 2024, recent regulatory developments have offered some relief. On April 8, RBI Governor Sanjay Malhotra said the apex bank will soon introduce a framework for classifying NBFCs, raising hopes for the Tata Group to retain Tata Sons as a private entity.

AIR INDIA LOSSES GO UP

Air India's losses have escalated to record levels due to frequent airspace closures in West Asia and a permanent closure in Pakistan since March last year

We're committed to building world-class airline: Tata Sons

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TATA Sons chairman N. Chandrasekaran acknowledged that Air India is going through a challenging period and that they remain committed to building a world-class airline.

"While our future is bright and we have laid a solid foundation for our ambitions, we are going through a challenging time, the impact of which is most visible in the airline industry...The Tata Group remains committed to the Air India group. The Board is fully supportive and will continue to work closely with the management team," said Chandrasekaran while speaking at an Air India employee town hall on Friday.

The town hall meeting was conducted days after Air India CEO and MD Campbell Wilson announced his resignation amid mounting losses and operational challenges. According to reports, the airlines' losses could be as high as ₹20,000 crore in the recently concluded financial year 2025-26. The losses have escalated to record levels due to frequent airspace closures in West Asia and a permanent closure in Pakistan since March last year, rising expenses and the impact of rupee devaluation against the US dollar.

These challenges exacerbate the repercussions from the tragic Ahmedabad (Flight AI 171) crash on June 12, 2025, which resulted in 241 people on board and 19 people outside losing their lives. "We remain committed to building a world-class airline. Our vision is to connect India to the world, and to establish service standards where there is as much dignity and respect for the passenger in the last row as there is for the passenger in the front row," said Chandrasekaran in the gathering.

Upper layer NBFCs: RBI mulls 'revised' criteria

MUMBAI: THE Reserve Bank on Friday proposed changes in the criteria for identifying upper layer non-banking finance companies (NBFCs), pitching for an asset-size-based approach as against the earlier parametric system and also inclusion of state-run non-banks into the list.

According to the draft guidelines, upper layer NBFCs will be those having assets of over ₹1 lakh crore.

"With a view to adopt a transparent, simple and absolute criteria for identification of upper layer NBFCs, it is proposed to replace the existing methodology with asset size criteria, which is currently proposed as ₹1,00,000 crore and above," the draft put on the RBI website said Friday. ENS

Despite market fall, SIPs grow 7.5% in March

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

DESPITE witnessing one of the worst months on record, with equity markets falling over 11%, retail investors, particularly those investing via mutual funds and systematic investment plans (SIPs), remained steadfast in March.

While overall assets under management (AUM) fell sharply month-on-month, key categories such as equity funds and SIPs saw robust inflows, helping the industry close FY26 with 13% growth at ₹73.73 lakh crore, up from ₹65.74 lakh crore in FY25.

Inflows into SIPs, which have been red hot for several years, hit an all-time high of ₹32,087 crore in March, up about 7.5% from ₹29,845 crore in February. Market analysts see this as an indication of continued retail participation despite volatile markets, partly aided by calendar effects, as some February instalments were processed in March. Net inflows into equity funds during March crossed the ₹40,000 crore mark, compared with ₹26,000 crore in February.

The strong SIP inflows came amid a massive pullout by foreign institutional investors (FIIs), who were net sellers of $14 billion worth of Indian equities during the month. FIIs net sold $20 billion in FY26, as the Sensex fell over 7% and the Nifty 50 declined 5.1% during the year.

Venkat Chalasani, chief executive of AMFI, said the mutual fund industry continues to witness steady investor participation. Equity inflows extended their 61st consecutive month of positive net inflows, reflecting sustained investor confidence in long-term wealth creation through mutual funds.

Qatar looking to strengthen energy ties with India: Minister

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

QATAR is looking to continue and strengthen its energy relations and cooperation with India, said Qatar's energy minister Saad Sherida Al-Kaabi on Friday.

The remarks came after Union Minister for Petroleum and Natural Gas Hardeep Singh Puri arrived in Doha on April 9 for a two-day official visit. During the visit, Puri met Al-Kaabi, who is also Qatar's Minister of State for Energy Affairs and President and CEO of QatarEnergy.

According to a press note issued by petroleum ministry, the two leaders discussed all aspects of the strategic relationship between the two countries, including high-level engagements, trade, investment, energy cooperation, culture, and people-to-people ties.

"They hoped for an early return of peace and stability in the region and further strengthening of the bilateral relationship between India and Qatar," the ministry said.

The visit follows the recent ceasefire announcement in West Asia, after which Puri travelled to Qatar to secure energy supplies that were impacted by the conflict involving Iran, the United States, and Israel. Qatar remains a key supplier of liquefied natural gas (LNG) to India, accounting for around 45% of the country's LNG imports.

However, the conflict disrupted supplies after Iranian strikes on energy infrastructure caused damage and led to force majeure being declared on some of Qatar's deliveries due to a production halt at the Ras Laffan facility.

Following the supply disruption from Qatar, India began sourcing LNG from alternative suppliers, including the United States and Australia.

Rupee volatility ahead as open position cap ends

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

WITH the Reserve Bank of India's April 10 deadline for capping banks' end-of-day net open position (NOP) in the rupee at $100 million ending on Friday, forex market experts expect increased volatility in the currency as the additional dollar supply dries up.

The rupee—which lost 9.9% in FY26—came under intense pressure amid a sharp spike in crude prices following the conflict involving Iran in March. In that month alone, it fell nearly 5% and breached the 95-per-dollar mark. To stem the slide, the RBI on March 27 cracked down on speculative positions by capping banks' net open positions in the forex market at $100 million by the end of each day, effective April 10. At the time, banks held nearly $40 billion in such open positions. Requests by banks for more time were declined by the regulator.

Decline Indian rupee witnessed in the month of March alone and breached the 95 per dollar mark

As this measure did not yield the desired results, the RBI took stricter action on April 1, intervening heavily in both the non-deliverable forwards (NDF) and deliverable markets. It barred banks and dealers from rebooking cancelled trades, which helped stabilise the rupee. The currency then rallied 1.9% in a single day—its best performance since 2013—and has since gained about 2.7%.

As per Jefferies, banks collectively held around $40 billion in open rupee positions before the RBI's intervention. Even a Re 1 adverse move during unwinding could have resulted in losses of about Rs 4,000 crore in the March quarter. The brokerage said while public sector banks had exposure within the permissible 25% of equity capital, private sector banks had exposures averaging over 125%, and foreign banks had exposures running into several multiples.

"An estimated 80–85% of the open positions have already been unwound by Thursday, which means the bulk of this supportive flow is now behind us. In simple terms, the cushion that held the rupee steady is beginning to thin—so brace for more volatility," said Amit Pabari, managing director at CR Forex Advisors.

Pabari added that with most of the NOP-related support fading and global uncertainties still elevated, the scope for further appreciation appears limited. "The rupee is likely to find a base in the 92.20–92.50 zone, with a gradual move towards 93.50–94.00 levels," he said.

SENSEX POSTS BEST WEEKLY GAIN IN 5 YRS

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DOMESTIC equity market made a sharp recovery and snapped a six-week losing streak with the BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty logging their best weekly gains in recent years.

Backed by a ceasefire in West Asia that led to a sharp drop in crude oil prices, the BSE Sensex and Nifty gained nearly 6% each in the recently concluded trading week, their strongest weekly rise in percentage terms since February 5, 2021. The broader market also rallied with the midcap and small-cap indices rising nearly 8% this week.

Realty, automobiles, consumer durables and banking stocks outperformed this week, signalling a gradual pickup in risk-on sentiment. Investors' wealth surged by ₹29 lakh during the week as the market cap of all BSE-listed companies grew from ₹421.81 lakh crore to ₹450.94 lakh crore.

However, despite the gains, the indices remain 4-5% below pre-crisis levels. On February 27, a day before the West Asia crisis erupted, the Sensex closed at 81,287 and the Nifty at 25,179. In the month of March, when war raged and crude oil hovered at $100-120 per barrel, both benchmarks had plunged 11-12%, their steepest monthly drop in years.

JAPAN

TO RELEASE EXTRA 20 DAYS OIL RESERVE FROM MAY

Japan plans to release an additional 20 days' worth of oil reserves starting in early May, Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi said on Friday amid uncertainty over reopening of the Strait of Hormuz despite the US-Iran ceasefire deal. The plan was revealed at a ministerial meeting to address the Middle East situation and will follow the nation's ongoing release of 50 days' worth of oil to the market, which began in mid-March, from reserves held by the state, the private sector and oil-producing Gulf countries. Takaichi directed related ministers to clear logistical bottlenecks involving paint thinners for home construction and car repairs, as well as fuel oil used in production of green tea. Japan relies on the Middle East for over 90% of its crude oil imports, most of which pass through the Strait of Hormuz.

THAILAND

TO TAKE MEASURES TO EASE HIGH OIL PRICE IMPACT

Thailand's government will approve a package of support measures to mitigate impact of higher oil prices, the finance minister said on Friday, but he warned that the country has limited ammunition to address its economic problems. Measures including support for welfare-card holders, fisheries and transport, as well as soft loans for fertilisers, electric vehicles and solar panel installations, will be proposed at a special cabinet meeting on Saturday, Ekniti Nitithanprapas told a briefing. Global crude oil traded higher on Friday as fresh attacks on Saudi energy infrastructure and concerns over disruptions in the Strait of Hormuz kept investors on edge amid a two-week ceasefire announced by US President Donald Trump.

CHINA

FACTORIES SNAP DEFLATION SPELL ON OIL PRICE SHOCK

China exited factory deflation after more than three years, as energy costs surged when the war in Iran disrupted swaths of global oil supply. Producer prices rose 0.5% in March from a year earlier after a drop of 0.9% in the previous month, according to data released by the National Bureau of Statistics (NBS) on Friday. The median estimate of economists surveyed by Bloomberg was 0.4%. But consumer inflation cooled more than expected to 1%, down from 1.3% in February, as a seasonal boost from holiday spending petered out. The core consumer price index, which excludes volatile items such as food and energy, slipped to 1.1%. The market reaction was muted, probably because investors already priced in the likelihood of producer inflation returning to positive territory.

Swiggy co-founder Nandan Reddy steps down amid co's boardroom reshuffle

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

FOOD and grocery delivery company Swiggy said on Friday that its cofounder and head of innovation, Nandan Reddy, will step down from his executive position and also leave his seat on the board.

Reddy, who cofounded Swiggy with Sriharsha Majety and Rahul Jaimini, is leaving the company to start his own venture. Jaimini had exited the company in May 2020.

The Bengaluru-based firm said in a stock exchange filing that cofounder and chief growth officer Phani Kishan Addepalli, along with chief financial officer Rahul Bothra, will join its board of directors.

Renan De Castro Alves Pinto from Prosus Ventures will also join the board as a nominee director, replacing Roger Rabalais, who is stepping down after transitioning from the Dutch technology investor.

In a separate filing, Swiggy said it is making changes to its articles of association to reorganise shareholder rights related to nominating directors to the board. As part of this move, the company has removed the rights previously held by Accel and SoftBank to nominate directors. In July last year, SoftBank's Sumer Juneja and Accel's Anand Daniel had already stepped down from the board. As of December 31, Accel held a 2.8% stake in Swiggy.

The company has also given cofounder and group CEO Sriharsha Majety the right to nominate himself and one more member of the senior management team to the board, which has enabled Bothra's appointment. Addepalli's appointment comes in place of Reddy.

Centre sets up system to monitor trade trends

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre is planning to have a weekly monitoring system to track export-import trends and sector-specific stress signals amid concerns that supply chain disruptions, logistics bottlenecks and rising input costs linked to geopolitical tensions could weigh on key industries.

Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agrawal said there will be "structured monitoring mechanism for tracking export-import trends and sectoral stress indicators on a weekly basis. Regular consultations with industry and Export Promotion Councils will continue to identify emerging challenges."

Jaypee Group founder endorses Adani's JAL bid

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AMID strong opposition from the Vedanta Group, an unsuccessful bidder for Jaiprakash Associates Limited (JAL), Jaypee Group founder Jaiprakash Gaur has come out in support of the Adani Group's Rs 14,500 crore resolution plan.

In a statement issued on Friday, Gaur said the Committee of Creditors (CoC) has selected the Adani Group as the successful resolution applicant, and he respects this decision.

"I appreciate the fair and transparent process conducted by the CoC and the Resolution Professional, and I thank both the Adani Group and the Vedanta Group for their participation and interest," he said.

In a statement, Gaur said JAL has been more than just a company—it has been a lifelong journey of conviction, perseverance, and nation-building since its founding in 1979. "Together with my colleagues, we built an institution that delivered iconic assets such as the Buddh International Circuit, major hydropower projects, cement capacity, and integrated developments including Jaypee Wish Town, Jaypee Greens, and Jaypee Sports City. This journey remains a matter of deep personal pride," he said.

Fleming & Super Kings feel the heat

Under pressure, the most successful IPL coach and five-time winners need results to go their way sooner than later

GOMESH S @Chennai

"HAS it?" Chennai Super Kings head coach Stephen Fleming let out a wry smile on the eve of the match against Delhi Capitals in Chennai. The question put forth in front of Fleming was about the criticism of him and CSK not being able to catch up and adapt in the last three years.

After their title win in 2023, Chennai has not been able to replicate consistency, missing out on play-offs in the year that followed before finishing in the bottom last year. It meant they took a complete change of approach, invested heavily in young Indian players, and brought in Sanju Samson but that too hasn't given the expected results so far. After three loses in as many games, captain Ruturaj Gaikwad and coach Fleming have come under the scanner. The 53- year-old had a momentary pause, before acknowledging the criticism. "No, results dictate that," said Fleming who has been the coach of CSK since 2009. "Criticism is fair when you don't do well. Look, I'm coaching throughout the year and two other competitions. I'm doing auctions across a lot of players. So it's not that I just turn off and then come to the IPL without an idea of where the game is going. In fact, it's the other way. I probably never spent more time studying T20 cricket around the world. We were off the pace last year, I'm the first to put my hand up and admit it. And we pivoted quite quickly now. We're in a position where we have got some younger players. One of the challenges is the number of players we have changed in the squad means there is a little bit of a settling process where other teams have been together for a season. We just need a little bit of confidence and a bit of evidence, and that comes from getting across the line," Fleming reflected.

For any other franchise in the league, back to back poor seasons as Chennai had would have ringed alarm bells, calling for a change of guard. Super Kings, however, are not any other franchise. And Fleming is not any other coach in the circuit. In his time with this franchise, Fleming has seen CSK win five IPL titles and two Champions League T20 titles — a record no single coach can boast of in IPL. It is what made the franchise trust him with not just CSK, but also the teams in SA20 and MLC in the United States. Through all of Chennai's title wins, MS Dhoni was their captain and face of the franchise while Fleming remained in the background. And he was happy to do so. However, the last two years have been different. With Dhoni stepping down and the team going through transition, Fleming has been in the forefront more than ever. And much has been written, including in this daily, about how they fell short in the mega auction and have been trying to catch up since. One of the key reasons was the Impact Player rule and the way other teams caught up with it after CSK won the title in the first year. It meant the transition from Dhoni got only harder than it was supposed to be. Gaikwad had immense shoes to fill but not necessarily the player pool to catch up with the rest of the league. It meant a tectonic shift from an approach that guaranteed success. "By no means an excuse, the transition from our method at Chennai. Over the last five or six years, the game and the ground has really changed. You really have to change your game plan and the type of players you've had," Fleming said.

It is often said that the first step towards solving an issue is acknowledging that it exists. CSK and Fleming have done that, but the turnaround has not happened in a pace that was expected. As the most successful coach in the league said, criticism do not exist in vacuum, results dictate the terms. Super Kings and Fleming are feeling the heat and they need results. Now more than ever.

DOUBLE DHAMAKA

Sunrisers Hyderabad look to turn their season around against in-form team Punjab Kings while beleaguered Chennai Super Kings take on Delhi Capitals in another double-header on Saturday. A look..

Inconsistent SRH

Despite their reputation for explosive batting and big totals, SRH have faltered this season largely due to top-order collapses as seen against RCB and LSG. SRH have seen little impact from the likes of Harshal Patel and Jaydev Unadkat. Nitish Kumar Reddy and Heinrich Klaasen were the silver linings in SRH's defeat to LSG.

SRH vs PBKS, Hyderabad, 3.30pm

PBKS' winning run

PBKS have come to symbolise what a winning unit should look like, whether it is chasing down a 200-plus total with ease against CSK or overcoming former champs GT on a tricky Mullanpur surface. As opener-keeper Prabhsimran Singh put it, PBKS are focused on collective success over Orange or Purple Cap pursuits.

CSK uninspiring

CSK need significant improvement both in batting or bowling. The absence of Dewald Brevis has also impacted the balance of the side. CSK head coach did not confirm the availability of the South African and MS Dhoni. Openers Sanju Samson and Ruturaj Gaikwad need to come good before things go out of reach for CSK.

CSK vs DC, Chennai, 7.30 pm

Can DC rise from heartbreak?

Delhi would be determined to compound CSK's woes with an all-round performance, as they know the importance of momentum in a highly-competitive tournament like the IPL. David Miller refusing the single on the penultimate ball would remain a talking point but DC want to move on.

Risk-taker Vaishali only four games away from history

BY Indian chess' recent gold medal winning standards, the last few months have been below par. The World Cup on home soil was disappointing. D Gukesh is still searching for answers in a year he has to defend the title. Most of the top players have lost precious rating points a few months before they defend their Olympiad gold across both categories. But because this batch of players are so talented, you can only keep all of them down for as long as possible. With just four rounds to go in the Candidates, R Vaishali has emerged to get ownership of first place. While she's only leading by half-a-point, it's already been a ride and a half.

It involved a below-par start, losing a game because of a mistake, winning a game because of a blunder and, now, with the business end of the tournament fast approaching in Cyprus, going on a run. During her inaugural Candidates in 2024, the Indian was slow to start off the blocks and went on a four-match losing run during the middle phase of the tournament. This was kind of expected because she's a very imaginative player. She goes for attacking lines and doesn't mind a sacrifice if she knows she can create opportunities or winning chances down the line.

This time, too, she started slowly. After beginning the tournament with four draws and a loss in her first five games, she has now won three of her last five games to be on six points, .5 in front of the second-placed Anna Muzychuk.

How did the 24-year-old reap rewards over the last week? By playing fighting chess and getting out of horrible situations. One of those moments involved beating Tan Zhongyi in round seven. A few nights later, she sacrificed both her rooks against Divya Deshmukh to win a game. "She has played exciting, fighting chess," Swayams Mishra, a coach who has been with the Indian women's team at the Olympiad, tells this daily. "In order to win the Candidates, you need to be brilliant but also have some luck."

It can put her in danger but her appetite for risk-taking also gives her chances. And she will be banking on this appetite to create history by qualifying for the title match. No Indian woman has ever qualified for the final in the latest format to decide the title.

Wounded Delhi take on desperate Chennai

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

HAVING lost the first three games, Chennai Super Kings will have to regroup and play to their potential for their first win when they take on Delhi Capitals at the MA Chidambaram Stadium on Saturday.

The hosts will bank on opening pair of Ruturaj Gaikwad and Sanju Samson to give a good start. Samson has failed in the last three games. But the way he was batting in training sessions, an attacking innings from him could revive a side which is short of inspiration so far. "The teams with the top three are performing well and going well. Both Ruturaj and Sanju are training incredibly well. Most of the boys are good. It's now just transferring that into performance and not getting too eager to get across the line and find the rhythms to come with winning," said Stephen Fleming, head coach of CSK .

Meanwhile, Delhi will be looking to recover from the heartbreak against Gujarat Titans. For DC pacer T Natarajan, this season has been special having come back from a collarbone injury. "For the past year, Delhi management has been great. Hemang Badani sir talks to me a lot. I attended a lot of camps in Delhi, Surat, Hyderabad and Dubai. The coaches, the support staff, they handled me well," said Natarajan.

Vaibhav, Dhruv seal Royal win for RR

ENS/AGENCIES @Chennai

BLISTERING fifties by Vaibhav Sooryavanshi and Dhruv Jurel powered Rajasthan Royals to a six-wicket win over Royal Challengers Bengaluru in their IPL match here on Friday.

Sent in to bat, RCB rode on a fighting half-century by skipper Rajat Patidar (63) to post 201 for 8. Virat Kohli (32), Romario Shepherd (22) and Venkatesh Iyer (29) also chipped in with useful contributions.

In reply, Sooryavanshi (78 off 26 balls) and Dhruv Jurel (81 not out off 43 balls) shared a 37-ball 108-run partnership for the second wicket to set the platform. Krunal Pandya (2/30) tried to bring them back with back-to-back wickets. But Jurel, in the company of Ravindra Jadeja (24), completed the task with another 68-run stand, with two overs to spare. Earlier, captain Patidar, who scored an unbeaten 48 against Chennai Super Kings in their previous match, held one end even as the wickets kept tumbling at the other. His innings was laced with four fours and as many sixes. Patidar was eventually sent back by pacer Sandeep Sharma but his Madhya Pradesh teammate Venkatesh Iyer and Bhuvneshwar Kumar 35 runs 17 balls to take the team beyond 200-run mark. Iyer was unbeaten on a 15-ball 29 while Bhuvneshwar was not out on nine off just seven balls. A steady drizzle ahead of the start of the match meant the Barsapara 22-yard strip had enough underlying moisture that led to extra bounce, which accounted for both Phil Salt and Devdutt Padikkal.

Vaibhav Sooryavanshi | BCCI

Brief scores: RCB 201/8 in 20 ovs (Patidar 63; Archer 2/33, Bishnoi 2/32) lost to RR 202/4 in 18 ovs (Sooryavanshi 78, Jurel 81 n.o; Krunal 2/30, Hazlewood 2/44).

Ayush marches into semis after beating Christie

SAPTARSHI C @Bengaluru

AT the Badminton Asia Championships, China, Ayush Shetty, the 20-year-old, produced a fearless, statement-making performance to storm into the semi-finals, taking down fourth seed Jonatan Christie in straight games on Thursday — announcing himself as a genuine threat to the title with power, poise, and total control. He beat Christie in straight sets 23-21, 21-17.

It will also be India's first medal at the Championships since Chirag Shetty and Satwiksairaj Rankireddy's men's doubles gold in 2023. "Beating the world's top 5 players in the last 3 matches is incredible. It's a big moral boost for him now," said Sagar Chopda, who trains Shetty at Centre for Badminton Excellence.

Built to attack, but now learning to control the game — Shetty is evolving in real time. The 6.5 feet tall, naturally aggressive shuttler, has always thrived on sharp, attacking badminton. "In China, where conditions are slower, and rallies demand patience, he has completely adapted his identity on court. It's a visible shift in maturity, and honestly, a proud moment to watch a young player." Chopda said.

The event witnessed the participation of around 86 surfers, competing across multiple categories such as Men's Open Surfing Shortboard, Men's Open Stand-Up Paddleboard (SUP), and Women's Open Stand-Up Paddleboard (SUP).

As expected, Tamil Nadu surfers dominated on the opening day of the inaugural surfing and stand-up paddling championship at the Butler Bay beach.

Boxer Vishwanath's Asian glory shines light on father's one-time dream

CHANDRA PRABHU @Chennai

THE tales of many Indian sportspersons tend to begin with their parents and grandparents. Their dreams are realised by their children at the big stage. Suresh Babu M, a boxer-turned tailor, has a similar story with his son Vishvanath, but it is layered with other socio-economic aspects.

Vishvanath's father recounted the experiences in grooming his son into what he is today. Long nights, little to no financial flexibility, and continued rejections were the norm in his journey but the duo ensured that they would persist against the odds. It began in the mid 1990s when young Suresh took the ring by storm in the city, as he won five sub-junior boxing titles and a silver in the national championships. His performances caught the eyes of those at the Madras Engineering Group's boxing team. However, due to lack of facilities and financial incentive then, Suresh had to quit the sport. "I was selected by MEG in Bengaluru. I really wanted to go but I could not because I had to make ends meet as a tailor. I did not earn salaries from boxing," he said. Like his father, Suresh had also become a tailor; he has been running a shop in Kolathur, a famous Chennai suburb as it's the chief minister's constituency. "I thought I could realise my dream through my elder son Vishvanath," he said.

That dream began to come to life when a young Vishvanath saw his father punching the focus pads as a hobby. "The passion for the sport grew in him. With the change I kept giving — ₹2 to 5, the boy went on to save upto ₹500 once and got a pad for himself," recounted the father. But it was not easy for him to groom his son into a boxer and to put food on the table for a family of four. "I used to earn around ₹100 to ₹200 a day. With that, I tried to pay the house rent and looked after the family," he said. At 12, Vishvanath became state champion, and set his eyes on reaching the next level. His eyes were set on joining the boxing team of the MEG in Bengaluru. That did not come easily. "He was rejected four times to join due to his height and nutrition, but I kept telling him to keep believing in himself," recounted the father.

The grind never stopped for Vishvanath. "I trained him at our home, when I was done with work at the shop. We used to have long nights. He refused to go to sleep until he felt he had a good session late into the night because he had tournaments the next day. My wife was against us training late but I insisted that the boy would one day be a champion," he said.

Centres gets strict, EC mandatory for HFC production now

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

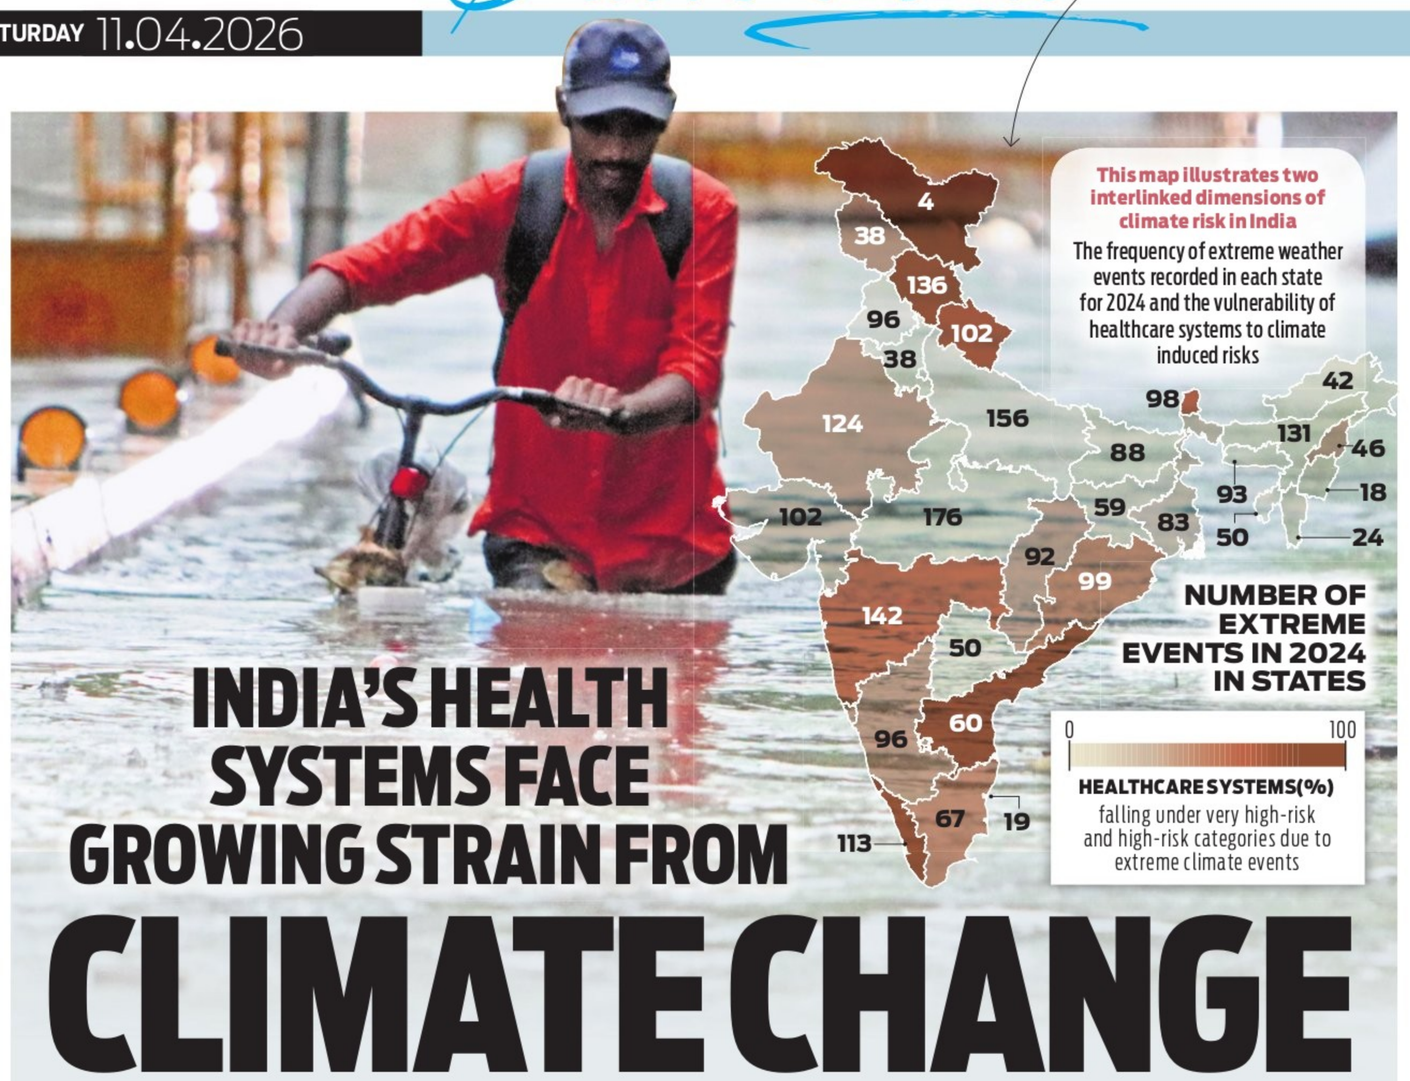
IN a significant move to address climate change and comply with international obligations, the Government of India has mandated that the production of hydrofluorocarbons (HFCs) will now require environmental clearance (EC) under the EIA Notification, 2006. HFC is a potent synthetic greenhouse gas used primarily in refrigeration and air conditioning that heavily accelerates climate change. It has more global warming potential than CO2. This decision aligns with the commitments established under the Kigali Amendment to the Montreal Protocol, adopted in October 2016 in Rwanda. India is required to undertake phasedown of production and consumption of HFCs as under the protocol. HFCs, commonly used in refrigeration and air conditioning sectors, are now classified as controlled substances. The amendment stipulates that India must undertake a phasedown of HFC production and consumption.

Specifically, the government laid out a reduction timetable that includes a 10 per cent cut by 2032, 20 per cent by 2037, 30 per cent by 2042 and a significant 85 per cent reduction by 2047. More importantly, the baseline for this phasedown will be established using data from 2024 to 2026, with a freeze on HFC production levels set to commence on January 1, 2028. At present, HFCs produced in India mainly include HFC-32, HFC-134a and HFC-125. These chemicals are primarily used in the refrigeration and air conditioning (RAC) and fire extinguisher sectors for controlled applications. However, the obligations under the Kigali Amendment apply only to controlled applications, whereas feedstock uses (use as raw material for manufacturing other chemicals with negligible emissions) are exempted under the provisions of the Montreal Protocol. The Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEFCC) has pitched for a robust regulatory framework to enforce these reductions. This includes amending existing regulations, particularly the Ozone Depleting Substances (Regulation and Control) Rules, 2000, to incorporate the detailed phasedown schedule mandated by the Kigali Amendment. Furthermore, no new HFC production capacities will be permitted beyond December 31, 2027 to compliance with the freeze on production levels.

At present, HFCs produced in India mainly include HFC-32, HFC-134a and HFC-125. These chemicals are used in the refrigeration and air conditioning (RAC) and fire extinguisher sectors.

State Level Environmental Impact Assessment Authorities (SEIAAs) have been notified of these obligations, with clear directives that no EC will be granted for new HFC production or any expansion of existing capacities for controlled applications after the deadline.

Any application submitted for new production capacity must be accompanied by an undertaking that all installations will be completed by the end of 2027. Further, no EC will be approved for enhancement of production capacity of HFC or commissioning of new HFC unit after December 2027.



INDIA'S HEALTH SYSTEMS FACE GROWING STRAIN FROM CLIMATE CHANGE

USHA PERI @ Visakhapatnam

IN a typical year, India moves from cold waves to heatwaves, floods to cyclones in quick succession. What once appeared as isolated weather events now increasingly unfold as a continuous cycle of disruptions. A new report, "Under the Weather: India's Climate-Health Intersections and Pathways to Resilience," published by ClimateRISE Alliance and Dasra, finds that these changes are no longer only environmental concerns but steadily shaping the country's public health outcomes.

The report highlights that India is the sixth most affected country globally by extreme weather events over the past three decades. Nearly 40 per cent of districts face high to very high risk from climate-related events, with implications for disease patterns and healthcare delivery.

One of the most visible impacts is the changing spread of infectious diseases. The study notes that India accounts for nearly one-third of the global dengue burden, and rising temperatures along with shifting rainfall patterns are enabling vector-borne diseases such as malaria, and chikungunya to expand into new geographies. Regions that previously reported limited cases, including parts of Himachal Pradesh and Jammu and Kashmir, are now witnessing increased dengue incidence. In cities such as Pune, dengue-related mortality is projected to rise significantly over the coming decades.

Flooding is further intensifying public health risks. The report states that in the immediate aftermath, exposure to contaminated water leads to infections such as cholera, hepatitis A and E, and E. coli. As water recedes, rodent-borne diseases like leptospirosis emerge, while overcrowded conditions in relief shelters create conducive environment for outbreaks of respiratory infections, measles, and meningitis. Flash floods already claim more than 5,000 lives annually in India, with projections indicating an increase in frequency and intensity.

Alongside infectious diseases, the report highlights a growing link between climate change and non-communicable diseases. Heat exposure has been associated with increased cardiovascular mortality, with studies indicating a rise in deaths during heatwaves. Since cardiovascular disease accounts for nearly a third of all deaths in India, the interaction between rising temperatures and existing health conditions is expected to increase risks further.

Air pollution adds to this burden. Long-term exposure to fine particulate matter (PM2.5) has been linked to chronic kidney disease, and India is home to 17 of the world's 30 most polluted cities, with levels in New Delhi significantly exceeding global health guidelines. The study also points to rising heatwaves contributing to increased cases of acute kidney injury, particularly among workers exposed to prolonged high temperatures.

Maternal and child health outcomes are also being affected. The study finds an increase in "pregnancy heat-risk days" in recent years, with evidence linking heat exposure to higher risks of preterm birth, low birth weight, and complications during pregnancy. Heatwaves are associated with a 16 per cent increase in the likelihood of preterm births. Children face additional vulnerabilities due to their limited ability to regulate body temperature and greater exposure to environmental risks such as air pollution and water scarcity.

The broader economic implications are considerable. India is estimated to have lost 160 billion labour hours due to heat exposure in 2021, equivalent to about 5.4 per cent of its gross domestic product. The research indicates that for every 1°C rise in temperature, industrial productivity is estimated to decline by 2 per cent.

Food security is also under pressure. Between 2015 and 2021, India lost 33.9 million hectares of cropped area due to floods and excess rainfall, and another 35 million hectares due to drought.

The report highlights that informal workers exposed to prolonged heat report fatigue, stress, and anxiety, while rural and tribal communities are experiencing distress linked to environmental degradation and loss of traditional livelihoods. Food insecurity, often aggravated by climate events, is also associated with a higher risk of anxiety and depression.

On the policy front, the report notes a gradual shift towards integrating climate and health considerations. Initiatives such as the National Action Plan on Climate Change and Human Health and State-level action plans aim to strengthen disease surveillance, diagnostics, and preparedness. Heat Action Plans, first introduced in Ahmedabad in 2013, have expanded to cover more than 130 cities and districts, incorporating measures such as early warning systems, cool roofing, and urban greening.

However, gaps remain in implementation. The study observes that disease surveillance systems continue to be largely reactive, and the integration of climate data into public health planning is limited. Many action plans lack detailed mapping of vulnerable populations, and funding mechanisms are often unclear. Only a small number of states classify heatwaves as disasters, restricting access to dedicated financial resources.

Despite these efforts, financing remains a significant constraint. The report estimates that India requires about $16 billion annually to address climate-related health risks through 2030. Current allocations fall short, with limited funding directed specifically towards health-focused climate adaptation, while a large share continues to prioritise mitigation.

The report underscores the need for improved data systems, particularly at local levels, to better understand the relationship between climate variables and health outcomes. It also calls for stronger coordination across sectors, increased investment in health system resilience, and greater focus on vulnerable populations.

Ganga water quality improves, but UP stretches yet to catch up

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE Centre has utilised nearly 75 per cent of funds under its flagship Namami Gange Programme over the past 12 years on tackling untreated sewage flowing directly into river Ganga, leading to measurable improvements in water quality across several stretches.

However, gaps remain, particularly in Uttar Pradesh, where multiple river segments still fail to meet prescribed bathing standards.

Since its launch in June 2014, National Mission for Clean Ganga has focused heavily on creating sewage treatment infrastructure. Of the ₹21,340 crore disbursed by the Union government till March 15, 2026, as much as ₹16,025.97 crore has been spent on sewage treatment plants (STPs) across the Ganga basin. Water quality monitoring by the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) at 112 locations across five states shows that key parameters such as pH and dissolved oxygen (DO) now meet bathing criteria across the river's main stem, based on data collected between January and August 2025. The board conducts manual quality monitoring at Uttarakhand (19 locations), UP (41), Bihar (33), Jharkhand (4), and West Bengal (15).

The presence of diverse benthic macro-invertebrate species suggests that the rivers have ecological potential to sustain aquatic life.

The river's water quality conforms to bathing criteria regarding biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) across its entire stretch in Uttarakhand, Jharkhand, Bihar, and West Bengal. However, stretches in UP, including Farrukhabad-Purana Rajapur (Kanpur), Dalmau-Raebareli and Mirzapur-Tarighat-Ghazipur (except for two locations in Varanasi), still do not meet the standards. The median faecal coliform (FC) values, a primary criterion for bathing water quality, are met throughout the Ganga in Uttarakhand and Jharkhand, as well as in certain stretches of UP, Bihar and West Bengal. Similarly, the median faecal streptococci values also meet the primary bathing quality criteria in the entire stretch of the river in Uttarakhand, Bihar and Jharkhand, along with certain areas in UP and West Bengal.

For instance, FC values at Har Ki Pauri Ghat were reported at 135 MPN/100mL and downstream of Haridwar at 140 MPN/100mL in 2025. In Varanasi, the median FC at Assighat was 2,500 MPN/100mL in 2014 which dropped to 790 MPN/100mL in 2025.

Similarly, the median value at NIT Gandhi Ghat of Patna was 5,400 MPN/100mL in 2014 and dropped to 2,200 MPN/100mL in 2025 while the Patna downstream Ganga Bridge value fell from 3,000 MPN/100mL in 2014 to 1,950 MPN/100mL in 2025.

Biomonitoring conducted in 2024-2025 at 50 locations along the Ganga and its tributaries, as well as at 26 locations along the Yamuna and its tributaries, indicated that biological water quality predominantly ranged from 'good' to 'moderate.'

Arecanut cultivation in Karnataka is risky, diversification need of the hour

DR AK CHAKRAVARTHY
Research scientist with Environmental Management and Policy Research Institute, Bengaluru

RAPID expansion of arecanut cultivation into non-traditional regions of Karnataka is fraught with risks, driven by climate variability and unsustainable farming practices.

The shift began in the 1950s, fuelled by supply shortages post-Independence, rising domestic demand, favourable market prices and government incentives. Cultivation spread from traditional belts to plains such as Tumkur and Chitradurga. The area under arecanut cultivation has since surged from 2.08 lakh hectare in the 1990s to nearly 6.7-6.8 lakh hectare in 2026, logging a three-fold increase. Tumkur alone has seen a doubling of acreage in the past seven years.

Researchers at the Environmental Management and Policy Research Institute (EMPRI), along with stakeholders from scientific and farmer communities conducted field studies and recorded higher incidences of bacterial wilt, crown choking bud rot, sucking pests, sting bugs, scale insects, red ants and mites in non-traditional areas.

However, challenges are compounded by the monoculture practice by farmers in Tumkur and Chitradurga, where red soils have lower organic matter and rapidly lose water. With lack of shade trees, the palm trees are exposed to heat stress compared to areca plantations in the traditional belt. Absence of mulching on bare soils, organic farming, dairy farming and mixed cropping also added to the farmers' woes. In traditional areca tracts, dairying provided raw materials for preparing organic biofertilizer, biogas plants, compost, enriching soil organic matter and supplementing livelihoods. In the new areas, arecanut is cultivated in red soils where water-holding capacity, organic matter, shade and ground vegetation are less. In such situations, a higher incidence of pests and diseases was recorded, forcing farmers to frequently apply pesticides. With soil becoming less fertile and turning acidic, repeated applications of fertilizer were needed to sustain yields.

EMPRI team found that temperatures rising up to about 40 degrees C in Chitradurga, Tumkur, Davanagere and other non-traditional tracts caused severe heat stress on arecanut palms, increasing vulnerability to diseases and pests. Erratic rainfall and prolonged dry spells, combined with high humidity fluctuations, exacerbated fruit rot and leaf spot. Climate models predict Chitradurga shifting to 'low suitability' for areca cultivation by the 2030s due to a predicted warming in the range of 1.1-2.6 degree C. In such a scenario, real-time decision-making in arecanut cultivation becomes risky.

What is happening in the traditional areca belt? In view of the heavy rains spread across 2025, over 90 per cent of areca plantations were afflicted with Bud rot disease. As a result, about 55 per cent decrease in yields was recorded. Due to incessant and untimely rainfall, there was immature nutfall, and farmers incurred 15-20 per cent yield losses on an average, prompting the Karnataka government to announce compensation.

In Sringeri, Koppa, Thirthahalli and adjoining areas, yellow leaf disease syndrome has wiped out several areca plantations over the past three decades. It is now believed to be a virus particle and the vector is yet to be detected. Additionally, labour shortage and declining interest among youth in agriculture are compounding the crisis. Root grub infestations have persisted since the 1980s and no easy solutions are in sight. Experts suggest crop diversification, with coffee emerging as a viable alternative alongside black pepper, cocoa and cinnamon.

The Karnataka government has introduced subsidies to encourage intercropping with banana, drumstick, Glyricidia, neem and green manure crops. In districts like Davanagere, farmers adopting mixed cropping systems, combining arecanut with pepper, coffee, cocoa and other crops. This shift from cultivating monocrops like paddy and maize to mixed crop farming has brought economic relief to the farmers and sustained livelihoods without adversely affecting the environment.

In the domestic market, there is a demand gap of about 5 per cent (~70,000 tons). To bridge this, expanding monoculture areca plantation is not the solution. Despite a demand for areca, areca-based products and commercial viability, a diversified areca plantation sustaining livelihoods, safeguarding environmental quality and optimizing natural resources is required.

JOKES A-PART

Known for his quadrant-based comedy reels, comedian Navin Kumar is adapting his signature format for the B'luru stage this weekend

My previous shows were just compilations of jokes but this one is personal... I tried to make sense of the chaos in my own life through the structure of quadrants — Navin Kumar, comedian

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

YOU'VE probably seen him on your Instagram feed with his delivery slightly reminiscent of a teacher, breaking down seemingly unserious topics that are likely to start endless debates. From how North Indians and South Indians communicate to picking between living in Bengaluru or Chennai, comedian Navin Kumar finds the humour and absurdity in life through a medium we last saw in our high school graph notebooks – quadrants. Trying to make sense of why the format has clicked with viewers, Kumar explains, "When these videos kept resonating with people, I realised it's because they break down things in a fundamental way, allowing people to zoom out, look at problems rationally and laugh along the way. The modern world is constantly bombarding us with choices and the recurring theme is to laugh at the futility of these choices." Now, the comedian is set to take the stage this Sunday with 'Quadrant Life Crisis', elevating this format to the next level.

While his reels may be focused on everyday problems and broadly relatable topics, the show digs deeper into his personal experiences. Kumar says, "My previous shows were just compilations of jokes but this one is personal in a way because I talk about my life right now – my problems as a guy in my 30s, being newly married, the aftermath of contemplating my problems, etc. I tried to make sense of the chaos in my own life through the structure of quadrants."

He has adapted his classic white board for the stage too, swapping it with a power point presentation instead. A solo show in London late last year and getting the opportunity to see comedians at the renowned Edinburgh Fringe Festival in between his own sets there, inspired him to experiment. "In my London show, it felt like the audience was expecting to see my signature quadrants so that's when I started thinking about how I can integrate them into my regular standup. In Edinburgh, I saw people really breaking the conventional standup format, especially Lou Wall's show where she incorporated both presentations and musical theatre elements. It helped me think out of the box," he reveals.

Having been a standup comedian doing the open mic and comedy club circuit since 2015, Kumar was initially resistant to the idea of making the comedy reels that have given him the following he has now. "I was into more traditional comedy and was a comedy purist. But over the last year and a half, I've really opened up my idea of what it is to be a comedian, I look at it more holistically now. The idea is to entertain people while fulfilling yourself creatively, so whatever ways I can do it, I'm going to keep doing it," he says, adding that his life has changed since his reels gained popularity. "Ultimately, what any comedian wants is to get more people to experience their show live," he signs off.

(Quadrant Life Crisis is set to take place at The Underground Comedy Club, Koramangala, at 6pm on April 12. Tickets on bookmyshow.com at ₹399)

Why Choose
Egg Freezing?

- Flexibility & Control: It allows you to delay parenthood to focus on career goals, personal priorities, or find the right partner without the pressure of a "biological clock."
- Preserving Quality: Fertility naturally declines with age. Freezing eggs at a younger age locks in their current quality, significantly increasing the chances of a healthy pregnancy later in life.
- Medical Necessity: It is a vital option for individuals undergoing medical treatments - such as chemotherapy - that may impact future fertility.
- Peace of Mind: The process provides a "biological insurance policy," offering confidence and reducing anxiety about future family planning.

A half-decent thriller with an important message

A SHARADHAA

CALENDAR
Director: Naveen Shakthi
Cast: Adarsh Gunduraj, Ramesh Indira, Malashree, Pramod Shetty, Sushmitha Nayak, and Nivishka Patil

What if the most dismissed biological cycle in a woman's life could tilt the balance between reason and ruin? This question carries weight, but Calendar holds it back, almost unsure how to bring it up until the very end. When it finally comes into focus, the film finds clarity. It asks us to rethink how casually the before-and-after of menstrual cycles are treated, and how the emotional shifts around them can influence behavior and consequences in serious ways. It is a strong idea with room for depth, but the film does not stay with it long enough.

For most of its runtime, Calendar settles into a familiar path. It plays out like a straightforward murder mystery, built around Akash (Adarsh Gunduraj), a doctor who has slipped into alcoholism after a failed relationship with Nakshatra (Sushmitha Nayak). We meet him in a bar, holding on to his pain, convinced that no one understands him. His friend Surya (Gurunandan), who owns the bar, gives him space while also trying to guide him back to his profession. But Akash does not move forward. He remains stuck, and the film follows him without adding much to who he is.

RATING 2.5/5

The shift comes with Malavika (Nivishka Patil). Her marriage to Raj begins to strain under suspicion about her closeness to Akash. The tension grows and turns into violence, with Raj later found dead. From here, the film turns to an investigative drama. Lawyer (Suchendra Prasad) and investigating officer Yuvaraj Ontimani (Ramesh Indira) come in, the latter bringing a slightly offbeat and quirky presence. Around them are figures of authority, including a father, a politician, and an officer, each trying to take charge of the situation.

The film finds some strength when it returns to Akash's past. Ramya, his classmate, now in an unhappy marriage with aspiring politician Rakesh (Pramod Shetty), re-enters his life. Through her, the film shows how relationships can repeat and break without warning. Her suicide, along with other deaths and unresolved threads, is brought together during a media interaction led by Health Minister (Malashree), who too has lost a sister. It is here that the film finally places the focus on menstrual health, presenting it as something that affects everyone and requires attention at a broader level.

But this is also where the film weakens. The central idea comes too late and feels separate from the story. Instead of growing through the characters, it is explained directly.

Director Naveen Shakthi works with a serious subject, but takes too long to reach it. Adarsh Gunduraj and a few other actors get underwritten roles. Even with actors like Ramesh Indira, Gurunandan, Pramod Shetty, and Malashree, the film does not make full use of their presence.

Calendar does not fully resolve its argument, but it leaves a clear question. There are days on the calendar that are hard for a woman to explain, yet they are often dismissed or misunderstood. What happens when we ignore the cycles that affect women's behaviour? The film raises it, but the effect does not fully come through.

With Ereya, the director takes on his first full-fledged historical film, drawing from material researched and written by Bhooshan Shanbhag

PULAKESHI IS A SUBJECT ANY DIRECTOR WOULD WANT TO HELM: KM CHAITANYA

K M Chaitanya

CE FEATURES

KM Chaitanya, known for directing Aa Dinagalu and Aatagara, and awaiting the release of Balaramana Dinagalu, is set to direct Ereya, a historical film based on Pulakeshi II. The film, backed by Wingspan Motion Pictures LLP and produced by Sunit Jawadekar and Nivedita Kothare, will follow the life and rule of the Chalukya king, drawing from the research and writing of Dr Bhooshan Shanbhag.

Chaitanya says the project came to him through the producers' ongoing work with the writer. "They were already working with Bhooshan, who has spent years researching Pulakeshi and has even written a book. They felt this could become a film," he says. The collaboration had been in discussion for a while. "After Aatagara, they had mentioned we should work together. When this subject came up, they reached out to me. Pulakeshi is a subject any director would want to helm. I didn't even take time to say yes."

The director points out that this is new ground for him. "Aa Dinagalu and even my upcoming Balaramana Dinagalu belong to a different space, a retro drama. This is my first film set fully in a historical period," he says, adding, "The preparation is very different."

At the same time, Chaitanya is clear about how he wants to approach it. "I come from the theatre. That way of looking at a film stays with you, even if it is made in multiple languages," he says. "Pulakeshi ruled at a time when present-day state boundaries did not exist. The regions we now know as Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh or Tamil Nadu were not defined as they are today, and his empire stretched across large parts of the subcontinent. So the story itself moves across regions, and telling it in multiple languages feels natural."

Niveditha Kothare

Sunit Jawdekar

He adds that scale alone does not decide reach. Citing Kantara, Chaitanya says it connected because it stayed close to its roots, something he sees as important for Ereya as well.

The film is currently in pre-production, with casting and crew yet to be finalised. Chaitanya plans to begin shooting either by the end of this year or early next year.

Slow burn of friendship, fracture, and consequence

A SHARADHAA

THERE are many reasons to like a film. In Peter's case, it begins with the sound design by Ravi Hiremath. The film makes it clear that you do not just watch it unfold. Your attention shifts to what you hear. Sound is not there to fill space. It drives the film's movement. Silence stretches longer than expected, and background sounds keep you slightly on edge. The Chande music, in particular, does not fade easily. It keeps returning, pulling you back to moments the film does not want you to forget.

Secondly, the backdrop of Madikeri and Bhagamandala is not presented as a postcard, but feels inhabited. The atmosphere is not decorative. It presses in on people and spaces. Roads feel like they have seen too much. Houses seem to hold on to things unsaid. You are not observing this place from a distance. Gurupasad Narnad's cinematography works in tandem with this approach.

Sukesh Shetty's story follows Peter (Rajesh Dhruva), who returns to his village after a while. As he reconnects with people and places from his past, fragments of who he once was begin to surface, never all at once. Through its non-linear narration, which goes back and forth, the film reveals just enough while withholding the rest, allowing you to piece things together.

Peter is not framed as a hero, nor as a puzzle to be solved. A bike, a house, a photograph, these are not just objects. They feel like pieces left behind, waiting to be picked up again. The past slips in quietly and refuses to leave. There is love here, but it does not come in sweeping gestures. Meera (Raviksha Shetty) enters gently, almost hesitantly, softening Peter's world for brief moments. Their connection carries warmth, but also a sense that it exists on borrowed time.

Shambu (Ram Nadagoud) brings familiarity, the ease of someone who has always been around. Yet, there is something unspoken, something altered by time. Sharath Chandra (Rakshit Doddera), also known as Battani, introduces a different energy. His presence creates friction in spaces that once felt settled, becoming one of the reasons Peter's life takes a turn.

RATING 3/5

PETER
Director: Sukesh Shetty
Cast: Rajesh Dhruva, Janvi Rayala, Raviksha Shetty, Ram Nadagouda, Prathima Nayak, Raghu Pandeshwar

And we have Radha (Jahnavi Rayala), a PT teacher who moves in to be Peter's neighbour, with her son. She exists on the edges but adds a quiet unease, as if she knows more than she lets on, or sees more than we do.

What stays with you is not just Peter, but the question that follows him. How well do we really know the people we trust?

Inside Peter's home, the emotional weight takes a different form. A mother (Prathima Nayak), unable to move past her grief over her elder son David (GB Bharath), and the lingering presence of Jessy, someone we seem to encounter in fragments within the household, holds on as if letting go is not an option. A father, Joseph (Radhakrishna Kumble), moves between prayer and escape, between faith and quiet surrender. They exist within Peter's world, yet almost on a parallel track. Their restraint makes their pain harder to ignore.

Director Sukesh Shetty allows moments to stretch. He does not rush to explain or resolve. The film shifts between timelines and tones, sometimes smoothly, sometimes with visible breaks, but ultimately arrives at a place of justified revenge. There are portions where the flow feels uneven, yet that unevenness reflects Peter's state of mind. Ritvik Muralidhar's music is another highlight, not just in the songs but in how it threads through the film.

Rajesh Dhruva brings a controlled presence to Peter. You can sense the shift between who he was and who he is now without it being overstated. It is a performance built on restraint. Prathima Nayak adds strength as the mother, grounding the emotional core. Jahnavi Rayala as Radha brings a quiet intensity, while Ram Nadagoud, Radhakrishna Kumble, and Raviksha Shetty fit seamlessly into the film's world without drawing unnecessary attention.

Peter has its rough edges. The screenplay could have been sharper. Some stretches feel longer than needed, and certain transitions feel abrupt. But even with these flaws, the film retains its identity. By the time it reaches its final stretch, Peter does not feel like it is trying to neatly wrap things up. It feels like it is arriving somewhere, almost reluctantly.

And when you walk out, if the scenes, the characters, the love, and the pain stay with you, it is because of the sound and the echo of the Chande music.

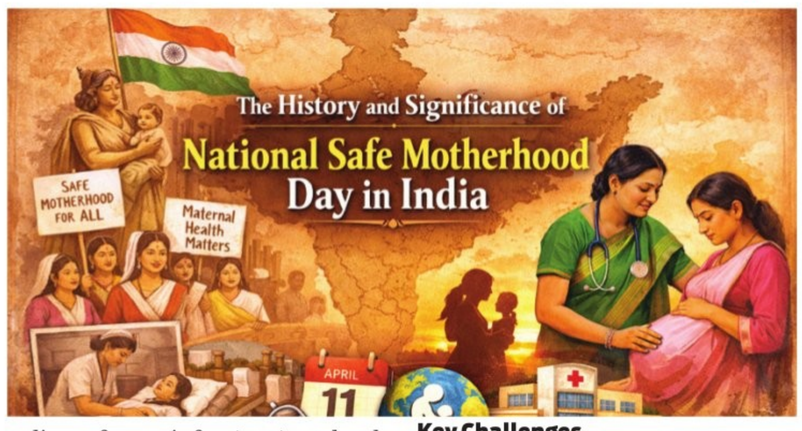
Holding Ground on Maternal Health

Safe Motherhood, Strong Nation: India Marks National Safe Motherhood Day

National Safe Motherhood Day in India, observed on April 11, represents a sustained national commitment to protecting maternal health. Its origins trace back to the early 2000s, when India faced alarmingly high maternal mortality rates (MMR), exposing gaps in healthcare access and awareness.

A turning point came with the advocacy of the White Ribbon Alliance India (WRAI), a coalition of over 1,800 organisations working toward women's health and rights. Their efforts went beyond highlighting statistics - they amplified the lived realities of women facing risks during pregnancy and childbirth. This persistent advocacy led the Government of India to officially declare April 11 as National Safe Motherhood Day in 2003.

The date was chosen to honour Kasturba Gandhi, a symbol of women's empowerment and social reform. By aligning the observance with her birth anniversary, the initiative underscored that maternal health is not just a medical concern but a matter of dignity, equity, and social justice. Notably, India became the first country in the world to dedicate a day specifically to safe motherhood, setting a global precedent.



Why National Safe Motherhood Day Matters

National Safe Motherhood Day serves as both a reminder and a call to action. Globally, nearly 287,000 women die each year due to pregnancy-related complications - many of which are preventable. The day brings visibility to this crisis and reinforces the urgency of improving maternal healthcare systems.

It also highlights disparities in access to care. Many women, particularly in rural or underserved areas, lack access to antenatal services, skilled birth attendants, and postnatal care. By drawing attention to these gaps, the day encourages policy reforms, infrastructure development, and equitable healthcare delivery.

Beyond awareness, it acts as a catalyst for collaboration. Governments, healthcare professionals, NGOs, and communities come together to strengthen maternal health programs. Importantly, it celebrates motherhood itself—empowering women to approach pregnancy with confidence, knowledge, and support.

India's Ongoing Struggle and Progress

India's journey toward safe motherhood has seen both challenges and progress. The country has significantly reduced its maternal mortality rate - from 254 deaths per 100,000 live births in 2003 to around 181 in 2020 (WHO estimates). While this decline reflects improved healthcare access and policy interventions, the goal is far from achieved.

National Safe Motherhood Day plays a crucial role in assessing this progress. It prompts stakeholders to evaluate existing systems and identify areas needing urgent attention. The day also reinforces India's commitment to achieving the Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) target of reducing MMR to below 70 per 100,000 live births.

Key Challenges in Maternal Healthcare

Despite progress, several barriers continue to affect maternal health outcomes in India:

- Limited Access to Skilled Care: Many births still occur without trained medical professionals, particularly in rural regions.
- Malnutrition: Poor nutrition among women impacts both maternal and newborn health.
- Social Determinants: Poverty, lack of education, and cultural barriers often restrict access to timely care.

National Safe Motherhood Day focuses attention on these issues, encouraging targeted interventions and community-level awareness.

A Platform for Action and Hope

More than a symbolic observance, National Safe Motherhood Day is a platform for tangible change. It drives investments in healthcare, promotes education on safe pregnancy practices, and fosters multi-stakeholder collaboration.

Equally important, it celebrates progress. Each reduction in maternal mortality represents lives saved and families protected. The day recognises the efforts of healthcare workers, policymakers, and organisations working tirelessly in this field.

IN BREAKING SILENCE, RESTORING CONFIDENCE

For years after childbirth, a 38-year-old homemaker from Bengaluru quietly lived with discomfort she could neither explain nor openly discuss. What began as mild urinary leakage—medically known as urinary incontinence—gradually became a persistent concern, affecting her confidence and limiting even simple moments of joy. Like many women, she believed it was something she had to live with.

The hesitation to speak about intimate issues and the lack of clarity on where to seek help kept her silent—until she discovered specialised care at the Gunasheela Women's Intimate Wellness Centre, a dedicated space within Gunasheela Surgical and Maternity Hospital designed to address such concerns with sensitivity and expertise.

Her story is not an isolated one. Across age groups and life stages, many women experience intimate health concerns that remain unaddressed due to stigma, embarrassment, or lack of awareness.

For over 50 years, Gunasheela has been caring for women at every stage of life—supporting them through pregnancy, gynaecological care, and fertility treatments. With a deep understanding of women's health and well-being, the institution has consistently focused on helping women feel healthier, more comfortable, and confident in their own bodies.

A woman's body goes through many natural changes over time—during periods, pregnancy, childbirth, and menopause. These changes can sometimes bring concerns such as discomfort, bladder control issues like urinary incontinence, changes in body appearance, or challenges in intimate health. Many women hesitate to speak about these problems, often accepting them as something they must live with. At Gunasheela, the approach emphasises that women are not alone and that safe, effective solutions are available.

As part of its continued commitment to women's well-being, Gunasheela has introduced cosmetic gynaecology services. These treatments are designed to address concerns such as stress urinary incontinence (leakage of urine while coughing, sneezing, or exercising), vaginal laxity, vaginal dryness and painful sexual intercourse and related issues—helping improve comfort, restore confidence, and enhance quality of life.

Dr. Rajsekhar Nayak

A dedicated facility has been created to ensure complete privacy and comfort for every patient. Each woman receives a one-to-one consultation with a doctor who listens patiently, understands her concerns, and carries out a thorough evaluation. Based on this, a personalised treatment plan is designed to suit individual needs.

Most of these treatments are simple, do not require surgery, and are performed as outpatient procedures. This allows women to return to their normal routine quickly, with minimal disruption. Care is delivered in a safe, supportive, and completely private environment.

Many women also experience vaginal laxity after childbirth, which can affect intimacy and reduce sexual satisfaction for couples. Today, safe and effective outpatient procedures, including vaginal tightening treatments, are available. These minimally invasive solutions can enhance comfort, improve intimate wellness, and positively influence relationships.

As Dr. Devika Gunasheela, Managing Director, Gyneacologist and Fertility Specialist notes, "Intimate health is an integral part of a woman's overall well-being, yet it is often overlooked due to hesitation or lack of awareness. Addressing these concerns not only improves physical health but also restores confidence and enhances quality of life."

The focus at Gunasheela remains on delivering care with compassion, respect, and the latest advancements in healthcare—helping women live with greater comfort, confidence, and overall well-being.

The launch of the Women's Intimate Wellness Centre is not just about introducing treatments—it is about changing mindsets. It encourages women to acknowledge their concerns, seek timely care, and prioritise their well-being without hesitation. For many, it offers reassurance that they are not alone—and that solutions are now within reach.

Intimate Care Services

The centre offers advanced treatments including laser-based vaginal rejuvenation, tightening, and management of urinary incontinence, along with PRP therapy for improved intimate wellness. Surgical options such as vaginoplasty and labiaplasty are available when required, along with pelvic floor rehabilitation and care for conditions like vaginismus.

"We often see women experiencing urinary incontinence, vaginal laxity after childbirth, and discomfort during intimacy, but hesitating to seek help. These are common and treatable conditions. With advanced options and personalised care, we can effectively address these issues and help women regain comfort and confidence."

VACCINATION FOR ALL: ONE OF THE FIRST HOSPITAL-LED STRUCTURED LIFE COURSE PROGRAMS COVERING CHILDREN TO ELDERLY LAUNCHED IN BENGALURU

SPARSH Group of Hospitals is one of the first hospital networks to introduce a structured Life-Course Vaccination In view of strengthening preventive and integrated healthcare care ecosystem, SPARSH Group of Hospitals today announced the launch of a comprehensive Life-Course Vaccination (LCV) Program, making it one of the first structured vaccination initiative covering individuals from childhood to elderly adulthood.

The program was officially launched by Dr. Sharan Shivaraj Patil, Chairman & Chief Orthopaedic Surgeon, SPARSH Group of Hospitals, in the presence of Mr. Jasdeep Singh, Group CEO, SPARSH Group of Hospitals; Dr. (Prof) Ranjan Shetty, Group Medical Director and Lead Consultant – Cardiologist, SPARSH Group of Hospitals; along with other senior leaders from the healthcare community.

The program will be rolled out in phases, beginning with the flagship Infantry Road hospital in Bengaluru, followed by expansion across other SPARSH hospital centres in the city.

The initiative is supported by Zydus Lifesciences Ltd. as a knowledge and awareness partner. The company will provide educational resources and capacity-building support to complement the in-house scientific expertise, led by Dr. John Paul - Consultant Infectious Diseases at SPARSH Hospitals, helping strengthen awareness about adult and life stage vaccination.

India today faces a growing double burden of disease. According to estimates from the World Health Organization, Non-communicable diseases such as cardiovascular illnesses, diabetes and cancers now account for nearly 63–65 percent of deaths, while infectious diseases like influenza and pneumonia continue to affect vulnerable populations. Rapid urbanization, sedentary lifestyles and environmental factors are increasing health risks in large urban centers like Bengaluru.

The initiative aims to promote vaccination as a lifelong preventive health measure—extending beyond childhood immunization to include adolescents, adults, elderly populations, and high-risk groups. The program is designed to address a critical gap in India's healthcare system, where adult vaccination remains significantly underutilized despite rising disease risks and changing epidemiological patterns. It aims to promote life-course immunisation by encouraging adults to stay protected through recommended vaccines such as HPV (for cervical cancer prevention), shingles (herpes zoster), pneumococcal vaccines (for pneumonia and invasive infections), and Tdap/Td boosters (for protection against tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis), among others recommended across different life stages - all of which contribute to safeguarding long-term health.

Launching the unique initiative, Dr. Sharan Shivaraj Patil, Chairman & Chief Orthopedic Surgeon, SPARSH Hospitals, said, "India's healthcare system must gradually shift from a model focused largely on treating illness to one that actively protects health. Prevention is the foundation of a stronger and more resilient society. Vaccination is among the most powerful tools in preventive medicine, yet life-stage vaccination beyond childhood remains underutilized in India."

"Life-course vaccination recognizes that protection is needed at every stage of life—from childhood to elderly years. Through this initiative, we hope to encourage a broader public-health mindset where prevention, awareness and timely vaccination become an integral part of lifelong healthcare," said Dr. Patil.

Marking a strategic shift from treatment to prevention, SPARSH Hospitals will integrate vaccination assessment into routine clinical care across all departments. Medical HODs and healthcare providers will review vaccination status at every patient touchpoint—including OPD consultations, hospital admissions, emergency care, and follow-up visits - ensuring that preventive protection becomes an integral part of everyday healthcare delivery.

Emphasizing the importance of translating preventive care into everyday clinical practice, Mr. Jasdeep Singh, Group CEO, SPARSH Hospitals, said, "With the Life-Course Vaccination programme, we are operationalising preventive healthcare within the hospital ecosystem. By integrating vaccination assessments across departments and patient interactions, we aim to make preventive care simple, accessible and routine for patients and families. Our focus is to ensure that every individual visiting our Units receives the right guidance, access and support to stay protected throughout different stages of life."

The initiative aims to improve vaccination coverage among high-risk populations, reduce the burden of vaccine-preventable diseases and promote a culture where preventive health becomes an integral part of lifelong medical care.

NATIONAL SAFE MOTHERHOOD DAY: CARE, AWARENESS, AND THE CHANGING REALITIES OF PREGNANCY

In a conversation with The New Indian Express, Dr. Deepti Bawa, Gynecologist, IVF Specialist and Cosmetic Gynecologist, SPARSH Hospital, talks on what it takes to safeguard mother and child, from early diagnosis to advanced neonatal care.

What are the most common risks faced by pregnant women today, especially in India?
Pregnancy today presents a mix of traditional and emerging challenges. In rural areas, lack of nutrition, infections, and limited medical access continue to pose serious risks. In urban settings, delayed pregnancies, obesity, hypertension, and diabetes are becoming more common. These factors increase the likelihood of complications during both pregnancy and delivery, making regular monitoring essential.

How early should a woman begin antenatal care, and why is it critical?
Antenatal care should ideally begin even before conception through pre-pregnancy counselling. Once pregnancy is confirmed, the first consultation should happen immediately. Early screening helps identify underlying conditions, ensures timely supplementation, and allows doctors to detect and manage complications at an early stage.

What are the warning signs during pregnancy that should never be ignored?
Certain symptoms require immediate medical attention. Severe or persistent vomiting leading to dehydration, any form of bleeding, intense abdominal pain, and visual disturbances or severe headaches are key warning signs. These may indicate complications such as miscarriage risks or pregnancy-induced hypertension and must not be overlooked.

How has awareness around maternal health changed in the last decade?
Awareness has improved significantly, particularly in urban areas where nutrition and regular check-ups are more common. Maternal mortality has reduced due to better access to healthcare and timely interventions. However, rural areas still face challenges related to anaemia, nutrition gaps, and inconsistent access to care. At the same time, modern lifestyle factors such as late pregnancies and obesity have introduced new risks.

What does an ideal pregnancy diet look like?
A balanced diet is key. It should include green leafy vegetables, fruits, proteins, and adequate hydration. Instead of three large meals, smaller and more frequent meals are recommended to manage nausea and improve digestion. Home-cooked food is always preferable over processed or outside food.

How important are micronutrients like iron and folic acid?
They are essential. Iron helps prevent anaemia, while folic acid is critical for the baby's neural development. Deficiencies can lead to serious complications, making supplementation and diet planning vital throughout pregnancy.

What lifestyle habits should expectant mothers follow or avoid?
In uncomplicated pregnancies, women can continue their daily routines, including work and moderate physical activity. Regular walking and guided prenatal exercises are beneficial. However, inactivity, unhealthy eating habits, and excessive weight gain should be avoided.

How can families support better maternal health?
Family support plays a crucial role. Ensuring access to nutritious, home-cooked meals, helping with daily chores, and providing emotional support are all important. In many cases, assistance during early pregnancy can make a significant difference to both physical and mental well-being.

What are the biggest gaps in maternal healthcare in rural areas?
Access remains a major challenge. While frontline health workers have improved outreach, not all women receive timely care. Nutrition remains inadequate due to economic constraints, and emergency services, including availability of blood and advanced medical care, are often limited.

What determines whether a normal delivery or a C-section is needed?
The mode of delivery depends on multiple factors and often cannot be predicted early. Conditions such as low-lying placenta, multiple pregnancies, severe hypertension, or size mismatch between the baby and the mother may require a planned C-section. In many cases, the final decision is made closer to delivery based on real-time conditions.

Are rising C-section rates a concern?
While C-sections are sometimes necessary for the safety of the mother and child, the goal is always to enable a normal delivery where possible. Increasing medical complexities and lifestyle factors have contributed to higher rates, but each case must be evaluated individually.

A Commitment to Safe Motherhood

At SPARSH Hospital, safe motherhood is viewed as a continuum of care that begins before delivery and continues beyond childbirth. Each stage of pregnancy is supported through clinical expertise and patient-centred care, with a strong focus on safety, comfort, and dignity. From early screening and regular monitoring to advanced labour rooms and neonatal facilities, the hospital ensures timely intervention and expert guidance. Even high-risk pregnancies are managed with precision through experienced specialists and well-equipped diagnostic and neonatal support systems.

Equally important is the emphasis on trust and reassurance. With personalised care for every mother, the approach goes beyond medical outcomes to create a confident and positive pregnancy journey, contributing to healthier beginnings and stronger families.
